HOUSE PASSES BONUS BILL, 363 TO 39

CHANGE IN PAY PLAN FOR CIVIL SERVICE URGED

Personnel Board Drafts Entirely New Method of Classification.

ABOLITION ADVOCATED OF EFFICIENCY RATING

Larger Salaries, Increases Asked; Program Uniform Throughout Nation.

Complete revision of the classification law was recommended by the Personnel Classification Board, in a report submitted to Congress yesterday.

Salaries of Government employes in the higher salary grades would be increased under the board's plan, as would those of certain experienced employes in lower grades. No class of salaries would be cut.

The present efficiency rating system would be abolished and instead employes would be rated as either good, fair or unsatisfactory.

Employes rated as good would receive four automatic annual increases until they reached the maximum pay for their class.

Subject to Pay Cuts.

Those rated as fair would not be entitled to increases, but would be subject to reduction of one step in pay if receiving more than the middle rate for their grade.

Those rated as unsatisfactory would be subject to demotion to a lower grade or to dismissal.

Recommendations were made by the board in submitting a report on its survey of employes in the field service, of the Government, made under the direction of William H. McReynolds, director of classification, and is the last of three studies made at the request of Congress.

Although originally centered on the field service, the survey resulted in the conclusion by the board that both the 104,000 employes in the field service and the 50,000 employes in the District should be brought together under the proposed classification law.

Bill Accompanies Report.

The report was accompanied by a bill which would carry the proposals into effect and this probably will be introduced in the House and Senate by Representative Frederick Lehlbach (Republican), New Jersey, chairman of the House civil service committee, and Senator Porter H. Dale (Republican), Vermont, chairman of the Senate civil service committee.

It is believed early consideration will be given the subject in the next session and that the revision proposal will have an important effect on the fight which the employes lost in this Congress to have existing discrepancies in salary partly eliminated.

The board's report met with general approval of representatives of the National Federation of Federal Employes, who said they could find little fault with the general program although it was likely they would want to offer a few suggestions when the matter was taken up for consideration by Congress.

Uniformity Urged.

Luther C. Steward, president, and Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer, of the federation, both stressed the view that the board's proposal to bring about uniformity in Government salaries is important.

Several of the conclusions of the board, based on its survery, support contentions of representatives of the employes. Some of the board's conclusions were:

The Saturday half-holiday is more widely prevalent in private industry than in the Government service; some private employers provide much more generous retirement plans than does

Maj. Cannon Gets Term of 90 Days

Failure to Pay Salary of Employe Results in Penalty on Coast.

Pasadena, Calif., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Maj. Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr., was sentenced to 90 days in jail by Judge Elliot Gibbs today for violation of the State labor laws.

Cannon, who formerly headed a military school at El Monte, near here, was convicted on one charge of failing to pay a salary to an employe. Nine other similar charges are pending trial. In two other cases the juries disagreed.

A motion by Cannon's counsel to release him on his own recognizance pending outcome of a notice of appeal which was filed was denied and the court set his bail at $1,000.

KING SEEKS AID OF FORMER FOE

King Alfonso of Spain (right), in a surprise move, asked former Premier Sanchez Guerra, erstwhile revolt leader, to form a cabinet. Guerra once was charged with sedition, but the charges were wiped out by royal decree.

POPE CHARGES ITALY HAS BROKEN PLEDGE

Lateran Treaty Held Violated by Movies, Papers and Sunday Activity.

CITES PROTESTANT ACTS

Vatican City, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Pope Pius, addressing the Lenten preachers of Rome, today accused the Italian government of failure to carry out the lateran treaty to the letter by permitting "immoral" newspapers, movies and vaudeville, encouraging neglect of Sunday observance and countenancing Protestant propaganda.

He charged that government institutions encouraged profanation of the Sabbath by taking young men out of the churches into athletic or recreational activities. He did not refer directly to it, but it was believed that he also had in mind the government's recent institution of compulsory premilitary training by which young men are obliged to drill each Sunday morning for a year and a half before beginning their regular military service.

As the pontiff received the priests, over whom as bishop of Rome he is direct superior, an unusual scene occurred.

They presented him with a petition in language, it was said, which indicated considerable desperation, and begged his help in combatting the triple evil of immoral newspapers, movies and vaudeville shows.

Forgetfulness of Sunday observance, they said, was abetted by the example of government institutions, and they asked the Pope to "defend the souls of our parishioners so satanically besieged and daily exposed to tremendous perils."

The Pope read the petition and launched into a vigorous confirmation of the priests' conclusions. Through "some high phenomenon of telepathy," he said, he had arrived at the same conclusions himself.

"An example of infractions of the third commandment," he said, "comes often from men in high position, from the institutions of the state and from the governor of Rome."

He reproached the government for failure to maintain the atmosphere of Rome as a religious center, as required under the first article of the Lateran treaty, and asserted that the government was at fault for permitting Protestant proselytizing to such an extent that even the Protestants themselves were surprised.

VICEROY WILL GRANT GANDHI'S CHIEF AIMS

Irwin Holds Peace in India Possible if Mahatma Yields in Part.

LEADERS CONFER TODAY

New Delhi, India, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Peace in India now rests in the hands of Mahatma Gandhi, Lord Irwin, the viceroy, said today, for the government is ready to concede most of his demands if he will agree to call off his civil disobedience campaign and give some evidence of a "change of heart" toward the government.

Lord Irwin has set aside all of tomorrow and the next day for conferences with the picturesque little man who is leading India's campaign for independence, and today he spent several hours talking to three influential Indian delegates to the recent round table conference in London.

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, who is credited with having broken down Gandhi's resistance to the point of arranging a personal talk with the viceroy, gave Lord Irwin his own ideas of the situation in a meeting also attended by Srimivasa Sastri and M. R. Jayakar.

It was to them that Lord Irwin said he was ready to grant amnesty to the political prisoners in India and to consider withdrawal of the present laws against Congress party activities, if Grandhi will make some concessions on his side.

He is willing to start an inquiry into charges of police brutality if a prima facia case of brutality is established, thus reversing his stand outlined in a recent reply to Gandhi's letter asking such an inquiry.

He can not, however, grant the Nationalist demand for the right to make salt, he said, for the salt laws can be changed or repealed only by the Legislature.

This was Gandhi's day of silence and there was no statement from him as he came by train from Allahabad. The authorities, to prevent any possible demonstrations, have arranged to take the Mahatma off his train at a small station outside New Delhi early tomorrow morning and to bring him to the viceroy's palace by automobile.

London, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi tonight cabled the Daily Herald that he was making desperate efforts to secure peace in India, if it

RULER OF SPAIN ASKS FOES' AID IN GOVERNMENT

Selects Sanchez Guerra, Powerful Enemy, to Head Ministry.

PRISON MAY FURNISH 2 CABINET MEMBERS

Royal Gesture Will Reduce King's Powers; General Strike Looms.

Madrid, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—King Alfonso today made the daring political gesture in an hour of crisis of inviting the enemies of his regime to help govern Spain and thereby, in the opinion of most political observers, saved the monarch from the most menacing situation of recent history.

The medium of his invitation was Jose Sanchez Guerra, a powerful political opponent of Alfonso himself, who tonight at the king's request, was working to form a ministry to replace that headed by Damaso Berenguer, which resigned Saturday.

The royal gesture had an immediate effect of restoring confidence. The stock exchange had one of the busiest sessions it has known for months. Values rose generally and bankers and business men expressed an optimism that has been long absent.

Will Cut Ruler's Power.

Sanchez Guerra's plan is a radical one, and one that if it is successful will strip the crown of much power and privilege.

It contemplates, first of all, the freeing of political prisoners, arrested by the hundreds after the Republican revolts of last December. Then would be held municipal, district and parliamentary elections and the conversion of the new Parliament into a constitutional convention. The convention, Sanchez Guerra proposes, will determine the future of Spanish government.

Before today most leaders saw in prospect either civil war, a dictatorship, or a republic. Tonight as the result of King Alfonso's bold move the opposition seemed largely mollified and it was generally believed that a constitutional monarchy, something like that of England, would emerge from the chaos of the last few weeks of political battling.

To Complete Cabinet Today.

Most of the political leaders of Spain, with the exception of chiefs of small groups of the extreme right, were enthusiastic in their support of the new premier designate and he was able to tell the king late tonight that he had almost succeeded in forming a ministry.

When he left the palace after his audience he said that he would probably announce completion of his task by noon tomorrow and that at that time he would present himself and his colleagues to Alfonso.

On every hand tonight it was plainly visible that Alfonso's action in voluntarily calling on Sanchez Guerra was popular with his people.

While the constitution of the new cabinet was not known tonight it was understood that at least two posts had been offered to prisoners now in jail as result of the revolutionary attempt of last December.

Confers With Jailed Chiefs.

Premier Designate Sanchez Guerra went to the Madrid jail tonight to

NAVAL AIR HEAD SCORES POSTAL CHIEF'S ATTACK

Resents Brown's Report on Service Provided by Pilots.

$150,000,000 DEFICIT IS DISPUTE CENTER

Postoffice Department Is Asked Not to Increase Parcel Rates.

(Associated Press.)

A dispute between Postmaster General Brown and Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, tonight climaxed a series of developments centering around the Postoffice Department.

It concerned the attitude of Government aviators toward commercial fliers. Rear Admiral Moffett denied a statement by Mr. Brown that the Navy aviators spoke of commercial fliers "with some contempt."

The Senate late today adopted a resolution requesting the Postmaster General not to raise postal rates until they have been approved by Congress. It acted after Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, had said Mr. Brown and the Interstate Commerce Commission planned increases which would cost the American people $7,000,000.

Cautions Air Operators.

Earlier, Mr. Brown called air-mail operators into conference and told them they would have to increase air mail service and readjust rates to meet a deficit estimated at $150,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

In his speech to the operators, Mr. Brown warned they could not look for support from military branches of the Government, since these were not at all enthusiastic about any part civil aeronautics might play in any preparedness program, but spoke of such aid "with some contempt."

This produced a statement last night from Rear Admiral Moffett, saying he was "sure that no one in naval aviation has ever spoken with contempt about civil or commercial pilots and airmen or what they have accomplished."

Pilots Are Praised.

"We have the highest respect for them," he added, "and believe that

Cotton's Condition Declared Critical

Too Early to Say Eye Operation Is Success, Doctor Asserts.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Joseph P. Cotton, Undersecretary of State, tonight was reported to be in a critical condition at Johns Hopkins Hospital with his wife and daughter at his bedside. Yesterday morning his right eye was removed by Dr. Alan C. Woods and following the operation the patient rallied.

Early today he was believed by hospital attaches to be improving, but later his temperature mounted and the word "critical" was used to describe his condition by Dr. Crenshaw Briggs, recording doctor of neurosurgery at the hospital. "It is too early at this time to say whether the operation was successful," Dr. Briggs said.

Mr. Cotton is 59 years old.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

No one would be rash enough to try to estimate the probabilities of future world trade. But it is easy to see from past development that it has possibilities that are very great. Only about one-fourth of the two billion people of the world have yet reached the standard of living that characterizes Western civilization. Transportation and communication are sure to penetrate among those who are living on the lower scale. Both their wants and their power to satisfy them will be increased.

Japan illustrates what may happen. In 1870 her imports were worth less than $17,000,000. In 50 years they had risen to over $1,000,000,000. Yet the per capita imports of Canada are six times greater. The Philippine Islands imports are about three times what they were 15 years ago. If China were raised to the level of Japan her imports would be nearly $8,000,000,000.

Yet probably among high-living-standard people most expansion can be expected. United States foreign trade is about four times what it was 25 years ago. The more it is examined the more nearly inexhaustible appears the opportunity for world production and exchange.

Gun Death of Printer Starts Police Inquiry

Storekeeper Claims He Shot Man as He Robbed Cash Register; Friend of Victim Calls Argument Cause; Inquest Today.

Police found the body of Albert A. Galbreath, a printer, 43 years old, of Twelfth near Randolph street northeast, with $15 in $1 bills clutched in his left hand and other bills scattered about, when they answered an emergency call to a dingy delicatessen store at 110 L street northwest about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

While Ernest Carroll, 45 years old, Negro, owner of the place, stoutly maintains he shot, the printer to death when he came in suddenly to find Galbreath at the cash register, police will appear before a coroner's jury at 11:30 o'clock this morning to present their theory that the Negro, who is being held, fired the fatal bullet after an argument and then "planted" the bills in the dead man's hand to bear out the robbery story.

They will produce Frank Clayton Brown, 27 years of age, of 336 Adams street northeast, a patient at the United States Naval Hospital, as their star witness to support their theory.

Meanwhile, two widely conflicting stories are on the records at headquarters, but last night they held little interest for Galbreath's wife, Mrs. Ethel Smith Bitting Galbreath, who was patiently waiting at her mother's home for her husband to come home—just at the time he was shot to death.

She believed that her husband had found work at last after a lay-off of months, for her mother told Mrs. Galbreath when she came from her work at the United States Chamber of Commerce that "Albert was called downtown this morning for a day's work."

Police hurried to a call from Carroll, which told them a man had been shot in his place. They found Galbreath's outstretched body just inside the door with the money in his outflung hand. There was a wound from a .38-caliber bullet which coursed through his head.

Carroll volunteered the information that he had been upstairs in his living quarters above the store. He heard the door open, he said, and then heard the tinkle of the cash register.

He grasped his .38-caliber revolver from the bureau and slipped quietly

DEMOCRATS IN ROW OVER REPEAL ISSUE

Dixie Senators Warn That Wet Plank Will Be Fought in 1932.

RASKOB HELD 'MISTAKE'

(Associated Press.)

Democratic party leaders were given notice yesterday by Southern senators that they would bitterly oppose any attempt to adopt a wet plank at the 1932 national convention. Their attitude was made known during a rough and tumble dispute over prohibition among Senate Democrats.

Chairman Raskob, of the Democratic national committee, and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee, were the targets of irate Southern drys led by Senators Sheppard, of Texas, and Morrison, of North Carolina.

As the tumult died down, the Senate adopted a resolution by Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, requesting the Wickersham commission to give the Senate the secret testimony it received in preparing its recent prohibition report. It was adopted without debate.

Senator Sheppard, a coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, provoked the row by calling upon Shouse to name the States the latter said had turned against prohibition and whose delegates would have a majority in the next national convention.

The Texan predicted the party would not "go" wet.

This brought Senator Tydings into action in a severe arraignment of the prohibition laws. In the resulting encounter, Morrison and Senators Black, and Heflin, Alabama Democrats, defended the prohibition cause.

With the national committee called to meet here on March 5 by Chairman Raskob, Senator Morrison, national committeeman for his State, warned: "If Mr. Raskob or those responsible for him undertake to use the execu-

3-CENT SCHOOL FARE FIXED BY CONFEREES

Enactment of Street Car and Bus Measure Is Expected Soon.

BILL FOR FOOD PUSHED

Three cents was fixed as the maximum street car and bus fare for pupils going to and from school in the District under an agreement reached by House and Senate conferees yesterday.

House conferees won a recession from the Senators on the fare and in turn agreed to other Senate amendments. Enactment of the bill is expected in a few days.

As passed by the House the bill provided for a 2-cent fare. The Senate changed this provision to authorization for the Utilities Commission to fix a reduced fare at not more than one-half the normal fare. It also extended the scope of the measure to include pupils of private and parochial schools as well as public schools. The compromise measure of the conferees extends benefits of reduced fares to pupils 18 years of age or less.

Representatives Fred Zihlman (Republican), Maryland; Clarence J. McLeod (Republican), Michigan, and Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, were the House conferees, while the Senate was represented by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee; Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin and Senator Royal C. Copeland (Democrat), New York.

The agreement marks another victory in the long fight made by John J. Noonan, William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and others for free rides

MEASURE SETS LOAN VALUE UP TO 50 PER CENT

Administration Is Dealt Heavy Blow by Huge Ballot Cast.

POWER TO OVERRIDE VETO IS DISCLOSED

151 DEMOCRATS VOTE SOLID FOR VETERANS

Speedy Action Is Forecast in Senate; Hospitals and Pensions Favored.

(Associated Press.)

Striking hard at administration opposition, the House yesterday passed the veterans' loan bill by the overwhelming vote of 363 to 39.

It provides for an increase from 22½ to 50 per cent in the loan value of the adjusted compensation certificates which were approved by the House, 355 to 54, in 1924.

Amid dramatic intensity the measure was sent to the Senate within an hour after Speaker Longworth opened the way for consideration. It carried with it more than enough votes to override a presidential veto. Similar quick action is expected in the other branch.

With their leadership split, less than two-score old-line Republicans rallied behind Majority Leader Tilson and Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee.

Vote Follows Brief Debate.

Crowded galleries looked on as the members balloted after 40 minutes of debate.

More than 400 of 435 members were present. Under the procedure, the bill had to receive a two-thirds vote for passage.

Speaker Longworth swung 216 Republican votes for the measure, against the warning of Secretary Mellon that the Treasury would have difficulty in financing it. Minority Leader Garner mustered his forces solidly, with 151 votes for the bill, and the Farmer-Labor member—Kvale, of Minnesota—added his to make the total.

Representative Bacharach (Republican), New Jersey, proponent of the measure, led the advocates with the statement that he could not understand why the Treasury should not appove the bill after conceding it was the best of all suggested. He predicted no bond issue would be necessary to finance the loans.

Five Speakers Urge Defeat.

Mr. Garner wound up the debate for the measure with the assertion: "The only argument against this bill is the argument of the Secretary of the Treasury."

Five members spoke against the proposal. They warned against the difficulties of financing it.

Chairman Hawley, Representatives Treadway, of Massachusetts; Ramseyer, of Iowa; Chindbloom, of Illinois, members of the ways and means committee, and Fort, of New Jersey, all administration followers, urged defeat.

Shortly after the shouting that cheered the passage had died, the House passed and sent to the Senate the Rogers bill to authorize a $12,500,000 expansion of the veterans' hospital facilities, without a record vote. Mr. Treadway was the only person voicing opposition. It also passed a bill to authorize expansion of the Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers to cost $2,800,000 and sent it to the Senate.

Earlier, the House veterans committee approved the Johnson bill to pro-

2 Bandits Rob Passengers Aboard 'Crescent Limited'

Crack Flier Out of Washington Yields Money and Jewels While Speeding Through Georgia; Shots Exchanged as Robbers Flee in Automobile.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Two bandits broke into the observation car on the southbound Crescent Limited, New York-New Orleans Southern passenger train, shortly after it left Newman, Ga., tonight, robbed several passengers and escaped after stopping the train.

The Atlanta dispatcher of the Atlanta & West Point Railway said the Crescent conductor notified him the men apparently boarded the train when it stopped at Newman. About 4 miles south of that place they broke the glass in the rear door of the observation car and unlocked it.

One of the men, a handkerchief tied about his face, entered the car and threatened the passngers. Seven or eight persons in the car were forced to hand over their cash, amounting to between $20 and $100 per person.

As the robber completed his round his confederate on the rear platform turned the air on the train's brakes. An automobile with headlights shining across the tracks was waiting on a nearby road and the two men jumped from the train and ran toward it.

One of the flagmen followed the bandits, firing at them as they ran, and one answering shot came from them. No passengers and none of the train crew was hit, but it was not determined whether the flagman's fire took effect.

The automobile sped away about the time the men would have reached it, the conductor reported.

F. H. Truitt, general agent of the Atlanta & West Point, left the train at La Grange, Ga., and advised the Atlanta Constitution by telephone the bandits obtained about $1,000 in money and an undetermined amount of jewelry from women passengers.

The Cresent Limited operates over the tracks of the Southern Railway from Washington to Atlanta and the Atlanta & West Point south of the Georgia capital.

Glassman Witness Is Held As Alien After Testimony

Simmons Motor Co. Head Is Charged With Entering United States Illegally After Leaving Stand in Liquor Conspiracy Case; Freed on Bail.

One hour after he had testified in the trial of Herbert Glassman and ten others, on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act, Louis A. Simmons, 34 years old, operator of the Simmons Motor Car Co., was arrested in the courthouse corridors.

The man was charged with illegal entry into the United States, growing out of admissions he had made on the witness stand.

Simmons was released on $500 bond after a writ of habeas corpus had been signed by Justice Frederick L. Siddons, of the District Supreme Court. Justice Oscar R. Luhring, who is presiding in the Glassman case, refused to sign the writ. Hearing was set for February 18.

Simmons was arrested after he had left the witness stand, where he had admitted on cross-examination by Assistant United States Attorneys Harold W. Occutt and James R. Kirkland that he had entered the United States in an illegal manner. Simmons was asked if he had not been refused entrance to the United States, and if afterward he had not come from London to Montreal, Canada, and thence to Washington.

The man, a nephew of Herbert Glassman and David Glassman, two of the eleven men on trial in the case, was testifying at the time as to alleged statements made to him by a Government witness, a week before the trial began on February 9. Levin McIntosh, the Government witness, had testified that an attempt had been made to get him to leave Washington. Simmons declared the man had approached him and offered to get out of town if he could get $500 for expenses.

After cross-examination, Simmons left the stand and took a seat in the courtroom. Just before court adjourned, he was called out into the corridors and taken into custody by vide $30 a month pensions for widows and children of World War veterans, entailing an estimated outlay of $131,000,000 in five years, beginning with $10,000,000 for the first year.

All of the 39 who opposed the veterans bill were Republicans.

They were: Ackerman, New Jersey; Beck, Pennsylvania; Burdick, Rhode Island; Chindblom, Illinois; Coyle, Pennsylvania; Darrow, Pennsylvania; Dempsey, New York; Elliott, Indiana; Fenn, Connecticut; Fort, New Jersey; Freeman, Connecticut; French, Idaho; Goss, Connecticut; Hawley, Oregon; Morton D. Hull, Illinois; Kearns, Ohio; Knutson, Minnesota; Leech, Pennsylvania; Luce, Massachusetts; Menges, Pennsylvania; Merritt, Connecticut; Nelson, Maine; Parker, New York; Perkins, New Jersey; Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt, New York; Ramseyer, Iowa; Rich, Pennsylvania; Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts; Snow, Maine; Sproul, Illinois; Stobbs, Massachusetts; Temple, Pennsylvania; Tilson, Connecticut; Tinkham, Massachusetts; Treadway, Massachusetts; Wainwright, New York; Watres, Pennsylvania; White, Maine, and Wood, Indiana.

Couzens Fights Hearings.

As the measure came to the Senate Republican Leader Watson made known plans for hearings on the measure before the finance committee. Senator Couzens, of Michigan, a Republican member, said, however, "we will have no hearings—they ain't necessary."

Senator Couzens said he believed there were enough votes to bring the bill before the Senate by Thursday at the latest.

Despite the overwhelming House vote, it was predicted in administration circles that President Hoover would back up Secretary Mellon's opposition with a veto. House advocates, however, were confident that such a veto could be overridden. They pointed to the vote of 313 to 78 by which the House overrode President Coolidge's veto of the adjusted compensation act, which awarded the certificates to the veterans in 1924.

Contest of Long Standing.

The contest over the proposal has been waged in the House for months. Many members, particularly Democrats, have advocated cashing of the certificates to aid veterans suffering from the economic depression and unemployment. It was not until the American Legion national committee went on record for some such action at Indianapolis in January that Chairman Hawley moved to open hearings on more than 50 measures then pending.

Secretary Mellon opposed all proposals to cash the certificates or to increase loans. Many prominent financial experts also expressed opposition to the plan. Only after Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric, suggested an increase in loans to cost about $500,000,000 did a group of Republican leaders throw their weight behind a compromise plan suggested by Mr. Bacharach.

Speaker Longworth and Chairman Snell of the rules committee ran counter to Majority Leader Tilson and Chairman Hawley on the plan, which met the approval of Garner.

Galleries Are Filled.

After all the proposals to pay cash were disposed of by the ways and means committee, the Bacharach compromise was agreed on, 17 to 4, and Speaker Longworth agreed that it be taken up for quick passage.

When the hour set for consideration came at 3:30 o'clock, every seat in the galleries was filled and stairway aisles were converted into seats by hundreds. Others jammed the corridors and doors, while the guards were reinforced to prevent disorder.

As the debate got under way, many senators came on the congested House floor. Enthusiasm ran high, particularly in the galleries, where repeated handclapping by spectators finally caused Speaker Longworth to admonish them.

As Mr. Garner completed the debate with the charge that Secretary Mellon "has lost his influence in this Congress and justly so" and the big four committee opponents had "heard your master's voice," there were shouts of "vote, vote."

Ayes Swamp Opposition.

The din increased as Mr. Bacharach put the question and a cataract of "ayes" flooded the chamber. Mr. Garner called for a record vote. Within a few minutes it became apparent that more than two-thirds, necessary for passage, approved the measure.

The measure is an amendment to the loan provisions of the atdjusted compensation act. It reduces the rate of interest to 4½ per cent compounded annually, and allows a veteran with a $1,000 certificate to borrow $500.

Under it, the loans are to be financed by the veterans' administrator from the $772,000,000 sinking fund set aside to retire the certificates when they mature in 1945, and also from the $50,000,000 Government life insurance fund. In addition, it authorizes necessary appropriations to carry out the purposes of the bill.

About $325,000,000 Loaned.

Veterans hold about 3,400,000 certificates with a maturity value of $3,423,000,000, averaging about $1,000 each. The present loan value is $730,000,000. The new bill increases it to $1,712,500,000. About $325,000,000 has been loaned on the present value to 48 per cent of the veterans. Proponents of the new bill expect 50 per cent of the veterans will apply for loans under it. They estimate the outlay will range from $375,000,000 to $700,000,000.

Those having loans would be entitled to renew them at the lower rate of interest, averaging about 2 per cent, and obtain an increase of 27½ per cent.

In the debate Mr. Bacharach said it was difficult to understand why the Treasury Department should be so much concerned about how much "it is going to raise the cost of bonds if this legislation goes into effect."

"Only last Friday they sold $175,000,000 worth of three-month notes on a basis of 1 per cent per annum," he said.

Fears Economic Effect.

Chairman Hawley declared that if only 60 per cent of the veterans avail themselves of the 50 per cent proposal "this will create a situation unanticipated by the Treasury and by the industries of the country, exceedingly serious in character, imperiling our economic recovery, and the extension of the present depression would have adverse results no one can now forecast.

"A material increase in taxation is in the offing," he said. "The loans proposed will probably have a temporary stimulating effect on business, afford some temporary relief, and that effect will vanish, unless there is otherwise a general economic recovery, so that the final effect will be serious and disappointing."

Mr. Treadway declared he preferred to accept the figures of Secretary Mellon, whom he described as the "ablest Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton," over the "wild guess" of his colleagues. He urged that the measure be sent back to the committee, which, he said, forced the bill through for action under suspension of the rules.

Another opponent, Mr. Chindbloom, of Illinois, contended that with 300,000 veterans out of employment, the House was providing loans to 3,500,000 and said the borrowers do not repay the principal and very little interest.

Mr. Ramseyer said it took five years to formulate the compensation bill and now an effort was being made to wreck it. He said the veterans had asked cash in 1924 and compromised on the certificates.

Mr. Blanton and Mr. Patman, of Texas; Mr. Rankin, of Mississippi; Mr. Almon, of Alabama, Democrats; Mr. Fish, Mr. Crowther and Mr. LaGuardia, of New York, and Mr. Simmons, of Nebraska, Republicans, all spoke for the bill.

High Spots of Bonus Bill As Passed by House Vote

(Associated Press.)

The high spots of the veterans' loan proposal before the House yesterday follow:

It increases the loan privilege from 22½ per cent to 50 per cent of the face value of adjusted service certificates issued under the act of 1924.

Decreases the interest rate of 4½ per cent compounded annually, amounting to about an average of 2 per cent reduction.

Provides that certificates already pledged for loans to banks can be recovered by the veterans' administrator so the veterans can borrow additional funds up to 50 per cent at lower rate of interest.

Provides the veterans' administrator may make loans out of the $772,000,000 sinking fund set aside to retire the certificates in 1945 and also from the Government life insurance fund.

Authorizes the necessary appropriations to be made to carry into effect the purposes of the bill.

There are about 3,400,000 certificates held by veterans, with a maturity value of $3,423,000,000, or averaging a little more than $1,000 each. The loan value under the present law is $730,000,000, and this bill provides it would be increased to $1,712,500,000.

Approximately $325,000,000 has been loaned under existing law.

Proponents hold that while the Treasury estimates the new legislation would cost $1,720,000,000, the outlay would range only from $375,000,000 upward to about $700,000,000.

About 50 per cent of the veterans are expected to request loans, since about 48 per cent have already made loans under present law.

FIVE STATES ATTACK WATER POWER ACT

COMPANY IS SUPPORTED

(Associated Press.)

Key provisions of the Federal water power act were attacked yesterday by five States as encroaching upon their rights when applied to nonnavigable rivers.

The States supported the contention of the Appalachian Electric Power Co., seeking a license to build an $11,000,000 plant on the New River near Radford, Va., that the Federal agency lacked jurisdiction as the stream was nonnavigable.

The States and the company's counsel asserted that if the Government should decide it had authority, then its powers extended only to issuing a license that would protect navigation upon the Kanawha River, into which the New River empties. The conflict between the States and the Government centered upon the type of license sought by the company.

Back Company Claims.

Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Arkansas joined in backing the Appalachian Co.'s claim. They pictured the case as establishing an important precedent.

A possibility the present commission may refuse to accept the findings of the former commission of Cabinet members, before whom the application was pending since 1925, was indicated by Commissioners Williamson and McNinch.

The former commission declined to act upon the application holding the question of State or Federal jurisdiction too important to be determined without a court ruling.

Commissioner McNinch declared, "The duty of this commission might be to reconsider the evidence as to the navigability of the river and other data and call for a full and fair rehearing."

Power Development Impeded.

The States brought out in their pleas that water-power development within their borders was being impeded by the pending application and urged that the license be granted as sought by the company.

In addition the States challenged the commission's right to issue a license on a nonnavigable stream provided for recapture by the Government of the property at the expiration of the license in 50 years on payment of a fair value; expropriation by the Government of excess profits, and regulation of any other parts of the project except those dealing with navigtaion or interstate commerce in power.

POSTAL FACILITIES BILL PASSES HOUSE

KELLY SPONSORS MOVE

(Associated Press.)

The administration-approved program for wider Federal ownership of postal facilities was passed yesterday by the House.

The passage of the bill to authorize $45,000,000 for the removal of postal activities from leased quarters into Government-owned substations and garages was almost simultaneous with receipt in the House of a recommendatoin by President Hoover that $20,105,000 be allocated for public buildings heretofore authorized. Final congressional action on the proposals is expected by administration followers in both branches this session. The $45,000,000 bill was sent to the Senate with unanimous approval.

The allocation proposal for 81 projects was taken under consideration by the House appropriations committee, which also has before it allocations aggregating $49,515,000 submitted February 2 for more than 200 buildings. They are to be provided for in the second deficiency bill now being framed.

Kelly Is Sponsor.

Sponsored by Representative Kelly (Republican), Pennsylvania, and approved by Postmaster General Brown, the $45,000,000 bill would authorize either acquisition of leased quarters used for stations, branches and garages, or the building of new structures to replace them.

An amendment by Representative Maas (Republican), Minnesota, providing that in case of purchase of leased property the Postmaster General should not pay more than the appraised value fixed by a commission of three named by the district Federal judge was adopted.

Maas declared in submitting the amendment that "we must take this out of the hands of the Postmaster General or we will have the leasing scandal duplicated by 100 per cent."

Five-Year Program.

While the measure contemplates a five-year program, Postmaster General Brown informed President Hoover that it would not completely dispose of major postoffice leases of the classes which the department considers uneconomical and generally disadvantageous to the Government. He said, however, large savings in rentals would result.

The program involves the contemplated early purchase of 78 leased branch buildings to cost $16,500,000; 14 garages to cost $5,300,000; purchase of sites and construction of 91 buildings thereon for stations to cost $18,300,000, and 15 sites and construction of garages thereon to cost $3,040,000. The remainder would care for emergencies.

The $20,105,000 allocation request would provide for new buildings, additions and improvements for postoffices, marine hospitals, court and customs houses and appraisers' stores.

With enactment of the fare bill apparently on a few days away, Mr. Noonan and his supporters are turning their attention to backing up the efforts of members of the House and Senate for free soup and milk for pupils of the public schools.

Representative McLeod is working to get the free lunch bill through the House in time for consideration by the Senate. One of the Government department cafeterias, possibly that in the Agriculture Department, might be given the job of supplying the soup.

immigration authorities and held for investigation.

Then his fight for release on bail was begun.

Simmons admitted that he came to the United States about eight years ago, and entered over the Canadian border, after making a trip from London to Montreal.

The Government closed its case yesterday morning and immediately after the luncheon recess the defense began introducing its testimony. The case is expected to last at least another week.

Reckless Driving Charged in Crash.

Reckless driving was charged to Milton E. Pier yesterday after his bottling truck crashed into a tree on I street near Virginia avenue northwest. He was booked after being taken to Georgetown Hospital to be treated for slight chest bruises. Pier, who lives on G street near Seventh southeast, was freed on $25 collateral.

Legion Head Says Loans Will Not Impair Finances

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, in a statement today regarding legislation for the payment of adjusted service certificates, said the proposal to permit the veteran to borrow 50 per cent of the value of his certificate would cost the Government nothing.

"The press states that a bill has been prepared which will permit the veteran to borrow 50 per cent of the value of his adjusted compensation, but objections have been raised because such legislation would impair the Nation's finances," said the statement.

"It is rather difficult to understand these objections, and I feel the Nation should be thoroughly informed concerning this legislation. There is now $800,000,000 which has been set aside in a reserve fund for the payment of adjusted compensation certificates, more than the Treasury Department estimates will be required for loans under the bill.

"This reserve fund belongs to the veterans and the Treasury Department acts solely as trustee for the fund. The proposed legislation provides for loans at 4½ per cent, although the veteran is allowed only 4 per cent on this fund and the Government can borrow money at less than one-half the interest the bill proposes to charge the veteran. This plan costs the Government nothing. Why the objection? We will be most grateful for any assistance Congress may set fit to grant the veterans in need but we want the American people to know the actual facts."

THEFT OF KENTUCKY PRECINCTS CHARGED

Former Senator Robsion Files Complaint With Nye Committee.

WIDE PROBE IS ASKED

(Associated Press.)

A charge that "whole precincts were stolen" in the Kentucky election last fall which resulted in his defeat was filed yesterday with the Senate campaign funds committee by former Senator Robsion.

The Kentucky Republican, in a letter to Chairman Nye, of the committee, demanded that it not confine its investigations to Republicans.

Mr. Robsion was defeated for reelection by Senator Williamson for the short term and by M. M. Logan for the long term. The defeated senator denied he had raised the religious issue in his campaign, and said he always stood for "freedom of speech, freedom of press and freedom of conscience."

Partisan Democrats Accused.

"The Kentucky State highway commission," Mr. Robsion said, "was in the hands of eight partisan Democrats. They had millions of dollars under their control. Kentucky needed roads. Thousands of men and their families were destitute on account of unemployment and drought.

"It was a matter spoken of throughout the State that persons interested in the Democratic candidates visited various communities in the State and stated bluntly to many officials and citizens that they would have to line up for the Democratic candidates to get this or that road built or to get employment.

"It could also be shown that whole precincts were stolen, and in others the ballots were so defaced that they could not be counted from the Republican candidates.

Democrats Are Included.

"Many Republicans in Kentucky, as well as I, feel that if there is to be an investigation of the 1930 election in Kentucky, this investigation should not be confined to the Republican party, its condidates and its managers."

Mr. Robsion said "nothing could be further from the truth" than previous testimony that he injected the religious issue into the campaign. He said some of his friends had arranged for publicity for him in the Fellowship Forum, Ku Klux Klan paper, because Kentucky papers were opposed to him.

Mr. Robsion added that wide publicity had been given to payment of $2,000 by Robert M. Estes, official of the Internal Revenue Bureau, to the Fellowship Forum, but no publicity had been given to Mr. Estes' denial that the money had come from Federal employes.

Later in the day Chairman Nye made public a letter he had received from Mr. Estes saying the money had been contributed by William Ristig, of Washington, D. C., and Michael Taradash, of New Jersey, neither of whom were Government employes. He also made public an affidavit from Mr. Ristig saying he had contributed $1,000 because of his friendship for Mr. Estes.

VICEROY WILL GRANT GANDHI'S CHIEF AIMS

could be obtained without the Nationalists surrendering their fundamental position.

The mahatma's statement was sent on the eve of his departure for New Delhi.

Insisting that India must have a complete national government, responsible to the people and including control of defense and finance—which are reserved by the British under the plan of qualified dominion status offered—Gandhi continued:

Must Control Defense.

"If India is to feel the glow of freedom she must have control of her own defense, receiving such assistance as may be necessary from British experience.

"If in certain matters we are unable to give a good account of ourselves, the fault is not ours but is due to deliberate suppression of the whole nation in matters of self-defense.

"Nor can I reconcile myself to external control of financial matters. Englishmen can have no conception of the growing pauperism of the masses, who have been bled white to provide revenue out of all proportion to the capacity of the inhabitants of this unhappy land.

Says Burden Severe.

"It is hardly realized, even by sincere well-wishers, that the masses are not only unable to bear further taxation but need lightening of the existing demands made upon them. The country can not bear the expenditure of a foreign administration—relatively to its average income, the most expensive in the world—in addition to the cost of a foreign army of occupation.

"I have singled out only two of several matters. But I am an optimist and a lover of peace and I am, therefore, making every effort to find if there is any way whereby cooperation can be offered."

Plans Laid for Launching New Navy Dirigible Akron

Municipal Airport to Take on Character of War-Time Cantonment as Giant Ship Is Tested and Put Into Flight.

Akron, Ohio, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Akron Municipal Airport is to have the appearance of a war-time cantonment when the United States Navy, some time this summer, stages one of its biggest shows—the launching and putting into flight of the new dirigible Akron.

Preliminary preparations are being made by Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, senior naval inspector at the huge Goodyear-Zeppelin dock where the Akron is being constructed.

The tests may run over several weeks. Thousands of spectators are expected to be on hand.

The date of the first test flight of the ship will not be determined in advance, but will depend upon weather conditions, Lieut. Settle says.

The giant orange peel doors, designed to minimize wind currents across the opening of the dock, will be opened and the airship will be attached by the nose to the portable mooring mast which will draw it out into the open under its own power, with gas-electric motors for driving and steering. The portable mobile mast at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., on which the Akron one is modeled, was towed by tractors.

The stern of the ship will ride on a cradle mounted on two balloon-tired wheels, free swivel about like castors on a swivel chair.

Although mechanical means of airship handling will be utilized in trial flights, minimizing the number of men needed, a ground crew will probably be on hand for the trial flights in addition, Settle thought. Fastened underneath the control car and under the rear fin will be two great bamboo bumper baskets made of bamboo to absorb the shock of any contact with the ground.

Once free of the dock and well away from any obstruction, the ship will be weighed off to test its buoyancy, the cradle will be released, then as the tail rises, the ship will be released from the mast and the motors will be cut in. The tilting propellers which give additional upward thrust, or downward thrust to the ship may not be used in the first flights, but will be tried out during the test period.

Several test flights will be made at Akron before the ship is finally sent over the mountains to the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst.

Aged Warriors See Modern Troops in Big Bethel 'Fight'

Motorized Armies Restage Famous Battle of Civil War Where 1,800 "Rebels" Repulsed 4,000 Union Soldiers; Mobility Reverses Former Result.

Special to The Washington Post.

Fort Eustis, Va., Feb. 16.—Aged veterans of the Confederacy, two of whom fought on the ground and official veterans of the general staff, watched today as the Battle of Big Bethel, the first land battle of the Civil War, was "refought" yesterday for the first time since June 10, 1861.

Some 60 years ago a Confederate force of 1,800 men repulsed a Federal force of 4,000 men. Today, the mechanized force, the Army's latest fighting unit, representing the advanced guard of the Blue, drove off the advanced forces of the Red army which had "captured" Hampton and Newport News.

In 1861 the troops on either side carried muzzle loading guns. Today, the infantry troops were mounted in cross-country trucks, carrying machine guns with 10,000 rounds of ammunition. Reconnaisance and patrol work was accomplished by armored trucks speeding over roads at 45 to 60 miles an hour.

Instead of the field howitzers used in '61, the forces today used self-propelled 75 mm. rifles and howitzers capable of shooting 10,000 yards. In '61 the Federals tried three times to outflank the Confederate entrenchments but failed because they lacked the speed of maneuver. Today the position was outflanked in a few minutes by a force of tanks and self-propelled artillery on caterpillar mounts.

Among the Confederate veterans who viewed the maneuvers today were Henry C. Carter, of Richmond, who is said to have fired the first land shot in the Civil War; L. B. Franklin, a member of the Richmond Howitzers, and John Presson, of Big Bethel, an 89-year-old veteran, who lives near the battlefield.

ECONOMIC MERGER OF DISTRICT URGED

Body Favors Amalgamation of Metropolitan Area of Washington.

UTILITY RATES INVOLVED

A preliminary report favoring economic amalgamation of the metropolitan area of Washington last night was submitted to the nterfederation Conference by Col. A. B. Barber, chairman, at a meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The report was referred to delegates from Arlington County, the District of Columbia and the Montgomery County Federations for consideration and resubmission to the next session of the conference. Each of the three have taken action indorsing the principle.

The report aims to eliminate in the future employment of the arbitrary District of Columbia boundary line as a basis for "discrimination" in public utility rates and services for other economic factors that might weigh unfairly upon individuals on either side of the line, or that might tend to produce "artificial distortions" in the development of the region.

"While it is generally recognized that the line of division of the Washington region as betwen the three major political division is a desirable one, the very fact of this division gives rise to a need for cooperation in regard to economic matters if detrimental effects fro mthe existence of the arbitrar yline are to be avoided," the report stated. "In many respects there have been in rcent yars considerable advances in this regard. For example, the Par kand Planning Commission of the District of Columbia and of the Maryland suburban area have cooperated with desirable results."

"In relation to public utilities generally, the arbitrary boundary has in some cases been the apparent cause of unwarranted distortions in the rate structure. In other cases the rate and services have been ajusted on a purely economic basis without reference to the artificial political boundaries. The Maryland Legislature has recognized the desirability of cooperation among the public utility commissions, and has specifically authorized such cooperation on the part of the Maryland commission."

A round table discussion of national representation for the District developed board divergence of opinion among the delegates present, and the issue was waived for future consideration along with the whole question of fiscal relations between the District and Federal Governments.

AIR HEAD RESENTS ATTACK ON PILOTS

they would be of tremendous value to the country in time of war.

"We believe that under the regulation and the efficient management of Bureau of Aeronautics of the Department of Commerce the planes are safe and efficient for the purpose for which they are intended and the pilots have no superiors."

Mofgett said that while all of the commercial planes could not be used for naval purposes, the would be enormously valuable for transportation in time of war and would be fit in to some part of the war cog.

"The Navy has encouraged commercial aviation throughout. To do so is one of the features written into the policy of the Navy Department fifteen years ago, and maintained as a major feature ever since.

Department Issues Statement.

Later the Postoffice Department issued a statement saying the application to the Interstate Commerce Commission on rate increase was intended to place the parcel post service on a sound and self-supporting basis as required by law.

Bearings on the appliactions will be held Thursday.

Referring to the Senate action, the statement said:

"Apparently with little understanding of the Postmaster General's position, it was alleged he was proceeding arbitrarily to raise the rates and to work harm and injustice upon the press companies and the public generally."

Manadtory Act Cited.

"It added that the act of 1928, under which Brown proceeded, was mandatory and that he was required to reform rates for fourth-class mail matter, with consent of the commission, whenever the facts show a deficit in the parcels post service."

Jennings C. Wise, attorney who will conduct the department's case, said:

"The Postoffice Department has nothing to conceal, nothing to hold back. After the most expert testimony available to the Government has been introduded and the objectors to the Postmaster General's petition given an opportunity to be heard, the burden will rest upon the Interstate Commerce Commission to decide whether the increases in the rates being sought as a matter of mandatory duty are warranted."

A bill seeking to make bank robbery or any robbery perpetrated with a pistol or other deadly weapon a capital offense is to be introduced in the Nebraska Legislature.

BUTLER WILL SPEAK IN INDIANA TONIGHT

Reprimand Is Expected to Lead Him to Use Care at South Bend.

PLANS LECTURE TOUR

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of the Marines, will resume talking tonight, but he is not expected to "talk out of turn," as his Leathernecks would say.

Gen. Butler left Quantico, Va., yesterday for South Bend, Ind., there to make a speech before the Knife and Fork Club at its midwinter dinner tonight. His topic has not been announced.

At any rate, it will be the first public utterance the general has made since his now celebrated speech in Philadelphia 29 days ago. In that speech he called Benito Mussolini a hit-and-run driver, and caused an international controversy.

Mussolini protested, Secretary of State Stimson apologized, and Secretary of the Navy Adams ordered Gen. Butler court-martialed. Later, through a deal negotiated by a representative of the administration, Gen. Butler said he was sorry, and Secretary Adams let him off with a reprimand.

In reprimanding Gen. Butler, Secretary Adams said that the department "expects that this incident will have a salutary effect upon your future conduct in matters of this character."

Inasmuch as Gen. Butler agreed to this, and, in fact, helped prepare the reprimand, it is not considered likely that he will loose any political fireworks at South Bend tonight.

Gen. Butler, it was learned at the Navy Department yesterday, has obtained leave for seven days, so that it is likely he will make other speeches.

It is probable that he will sign a definite contract with a Chautauqua company to make a lecture tour of the country. The general has considerable leave coming to him, and this he is expected to use up for many of his lectures. He is expected to retire from the Marine Corps next year.

PRINTER SHOT DEAD; POLICE START PROBE

down the inside back stairs, which led to the store. A partition concealed him from the store, he declared. As he stepped from behind it he saw a man backing toward the rear exit with money from the cash register clasped in his hand, Carroll related.

The man turned when he heard Carroll, the storekeeper said, and at that moment the shopowner fired, killing Galbreath instantly.

But police soon started to break down this story. They discovered Brown, who, they contend was present at the time of the slaying, and who had been with Galbreath all day.

They overlooked Brown, they say, at the scene of the slaying, because, when he tried to enter the delicatessen store, they believed he was a newspaper reporter and kept him out.

Brown's story was told to Detective Serg. Thomas Sweeny, of the homicide squad, who is leading the investigation, and Detective Fihelly.

He said that he met Galbreath yesterday morning and that, in company with another man named Al Wolfe, they went to the delicatessen store for drinks. Wolfe confirmed this story, the police say, although Carroll denies he ever saw Galbreath before the shooting.

In the afternoon Galbreath and Brown went back to the place for drinks, and Galbreath paid for them with silver, for Brown says that he had no bills on his person. As they went to leave the store Galbreath, with his hand on the knob, placed a cigarette in his mouth.

Particles of tobacco clung to Galbreath's lips, Brown related, and the man spat them out. Brown says that Caroll became angry and warned Galbreath not to spit on the floor. After some argument Galbreath again turned to leave, but before going spat upon the floor.

Carroll reached under the counter and pulled out the revolver, firing a bullet through Galbreath's temple, Brown charges.

His friends fell against him, and rolled to the floor, Brown told detectives. He showed them brownish stains across the front of his coat, which he said was Galbreath's blood.

These stains are being analyzed in an attempt to bolster the case before the hearing this morning.

After the shooting, Brown told Sergt. Sweeny, he stood in front of the delicatessen store and saw Carroll drag the body back from the door in order that he could close it. Carroll then closed and locked the door, Brown says. The witness declares that he waited until th epolice arrived at the scene and began their investigation.

Galbreath is survived by his widow, a son, James Galbreath; a step-son, Cecil Bitting; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Galbreath, of 20 K street northwest, and a brother, William Galbreath.

Murder Is Hinted In Death of Boy, 16
Broken Neck and Arm Cause Further Inquiry Into Waybright Case.
Special to The Washington Post.
Harrisonburg, Va., Feb. 16.—Highland County, Va., officers, according to a message from Monterey tonight, are investigating new developments in the death of 16-year-old Raymond Waybright, whose frozen body was found on High Knob, in lower Crabbottom Valley last night.
It developed when the body was prepared for burial Saturday that Waybright's neck and arm were broken. A coroner had previously held that the boy came to his death from freezing.
The youngster left home Tuesday with Jay Vandevender, a neighbor. He did not return home that night. A search was instituted next day and his frozen body found Thursday. Sheriff Guttshall and Commonwealth's Attorney Hansel, of Highland, stated tonight they knew no motive for the slaying of the boy.

$50,000,000 Russian Fur Contract Is Signed
London, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Eitingon Schild Co., international fur traders with headquarters in New York, announced today that with the approval of the Government at Washington they had signed a contract with the Poushno Syndicate of Moscow for the purchase of $50,000,000 worth of furs for America and Europe.
The contract, said to be the largest of its kind ever negotiated, was signed in London with Arcos, the Soviet trading organization, acting as the representative of the Poushno syndicate. The deal provides that $10,000,000 worth of Russian furs will be delivered each year for five years. They will be imported raw and the dressing and dyeing will be done in Europe and America.
In Minnesota during 1930 a total of 181 dividends aggregating $3,528,736.77 were issued to depositors of 142 closed banks.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

AUTO IS RECOVERED IN 12-MILE PURSUIT

Former Montgomery Officer's Car Returned Before He Knew of Theft.

$50,000 SUIT IS FILED

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Former State's Attorney Albert M. Boulc, of Rockville, yesterday was treated to a display of police efficiency by Montgomery County Policeman Harry Merson, of police headquarters. Before the former official had learned that his car was stolen, it was returned to him by the policeman, who also had the alleged thief.

Officer Merson was patrolling the streets early yesterday morning when he sighted Mr. Boulc's car. A strange man was driving it. Curious to know the reason why, he turned to question the driver, but the car sped away. Giving chase, the policeman participated in a 12-mile breakneck race, which finally ended with the arrest of Edward E. Barrett, 35, of West Homestead, Pa.

The policeman found in the car a number of tools and accessories which are alleged to have been stolen from the garage of Donald A. DeLashmutt. Barrett is alleged to have admitted both thefts. The man was committed to jail in default of bond on two larceny warrants by Justice of the Peace John Jones.

A special meeting of the Cabin John Volunteer Fire Department will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Glen Echo-Cabin John Schoolhouse as a result of the strife which has been waged in the department since the last election.

Resignations of eight active members were received yesterday by the president. A. A. Potter said he will resign at the meeting tonight. Berlin G. Brann, secretary, resigned several days ago. David Tuohey, treasurer, was among those who tendered their resignations.

Trouble started when reserve members of the department were permitted to vote in the elections, according to Mr. Potter, and later Chief Thomas Sullivan, whose resignation also was included in those received yesterday, asked Mr. Potter to resign on the ground that his anti-Ritchie efforts in the last campaign are imperiling the chances of the department to secure passage of legislation pending before the State Legislature.

The special meeting will be held tonight to consider the situation and to elect new officers. The department is scheduled to act as host to the County Volunteer Fire Association Friday night.

Suit for $50,000 damages, alleging alienation of affections was filed yesterday in circuit court at Rockville by John F. Reffitt, of near Boyds, Md., against Delaney F. Brown, of Purdum. Mr. Reffitt also filed suit for absolute divorce from Mrs. Beulah F. Reffitt, naming Brown as corespondent.

Through Attorney Thomas L. Dawson, the husband alleges that Brown alienated and destroyed the affection of his wife and caused her to desert him. He said he and the defendant were married August 14, 1913, at Upper Marlboro, Md., and that six children were born of the union. He asks an absolute divorce and custody of the children. Both men manage thriving huckster businesses.

Richard Thomas, 44 years old, of Washington, appeared before Deputy Clerk Thomas Wiley in circuit court at Rockville yesterday and asked for a marriage license. Mr. Wiley began filling in the blank until he came to the question:

"Have you ever been married before?" "Yes, sir," the applicant replied. "Did you secure a divorce?" "No, sir. I don't need it. I've been deserted eighteen years."

Then it was that Thomas discovered that in the State of Maryland a divorce is necessary before he can be married again. The wedding was postponed indefinitely.

College Girls Thrive Four Weeks On Diet Costing 28 Cents a Day

Doctors Check Results as Nine Conclude Experiment.

Red Cross, Public Health Service Assist in Making Test.

Nine girl students and instructors of the Washington Missionary College at Takoma Park, D. C., yesterday completed a four-weeks' test diet on rations costing not more than 28 cents apiece, per day.

All of the girls are fatter, fairer and more fit than they were at the start of the period according to physicians who yesterday conducted examinations to determine the outcome of the experiment.

"I never felt better in my life," was the comment of Miss Anna Roedel, head of the home economics department of the college, who directed and was party to the tests, in cooperation with officials of the Public Health Service, the Bureau of Home Economics and the American Red Cross.

Seven girls and two instructors lived throughout the period on cottage cheese, eggs, peanut butter and soy bean milk, instead of meat, with a liberal supply of tomatoes and oranges furnishing the necessary vitamines. Dieticians say the food cost 28 cents per girl per day, and there was still plenty of provisions on hand when the test ended last night.

The girls sat down to every meal with good appetites, attributed by those in charge to the ban on eating between meals. Desserts were served only three times a week. Two girls were assigned to the preparation of each meal, while the remainder checked the calory contents of the food eaten.

The 28-cent menus were prepared by Miss Ida P. Rodgers, of the Bureau of Home Economics, and a member of the President's Unemployment Committee. She was aided by officials of the Red Cross and the Public Health Service, while Miss W. Howe, of the Washington Sanitarium, checked the menus and provided additional suggestions.

Those taking the tests were the Misses Dorothy Sampson, Edith Starr, Marjorie Luttrell, Louise Beatty, Anetta Truman, Mildred Griffin and Louise Torter. Miss Roedel, supervisor of the home economics department, and Miss Zeta Marsh, school nurse, also participated.

Physicians will continue to check the condition of the girls for the next 24 hours.

Salesman Causes Burglars' Arrests

T... Is Jailed at Culpeper Following Series of Store Losses.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Feb. 16.—Three burglars who last night entered three business houses in Culpeper were captured in Orange today by an amateur officer. From the evidence available this morning they had forced the bars from a window of a retail clothing store here and had taken merchandise.

Today J. Hamilton Newhouse, a traveling salesman, was in Orange and saw a man in one of the stores there. Noticing that the man wore a complete new outfit and carried a new suit case, he questioned him as to where he had obtained the new clothes. When the man admitted that he had been in Culpeper Sunday night Newhouse took him in charge and made him lead him to his two companions, both of whom also had new clothing and suit cases.

Newhouse called an officer. The store owner from Culpeper came to Orange and identified part of the articles recovered, and the three men then admitted all three burglaries. They were brought to Culpeper and lodged in jail.

Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Members of the local and national Red Cross and local and State boards of public welfare met yesterday in the Fairfax County courthouse for a discussion of ways and means of handling the Red Cross drought and unemployment relief funds. The meeting was addressed by Miss Saddie James, field executive of the National Red Cross; Robert R. Buckley, chairman of the Fairfax County Welfare Board; Paul Blandford and Arthur W. James, of the State Board of Public Welfare at Richmond. The Fairfax County chapter was represented by E. C. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, vice chairman; Mrs. George R. Bready, of Herndon; Mrs. W. J. Cleveland, of Seminary, secretary; Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, treasurer, and Mrs. John Warnock Echols, of Vienna.

It was decided to elect a county drought relief chairman. This chairman was to select members to serve on the relief committee from the seven local branch chapters. Mrs. Fannie Lou Seamons, county health nurse; Mrs. Louise Manghum, county superintendent of public welfare; H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent, and Miss Sara E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, are to assist the committee as ex-officio members in an advisory capacity.

Cleveland, of Falls Church district; Miss Jennie Moore, of Fairfax; Mrs. George R. L. Tuberville, of Centerville; Col. Stephen Wood, of Fort Humphreys; Mrs. J. Randall Caton, of Mount Vernon district; John W. Brookfield, of Springfield, and Mrs. J. B. Davis, of Lee district. Each of the local chairmen were authorized to issue emergency relief vouchers for food pending final action by the entire county committee. These vouchers will be orders upon local merchants for food and supplies. Each case will be carefully investigated by the county chapter before aid is given. The relief committee will meet Friday morning at Fairfax to pass upon claims presented at that time. Miss James stated that $500 would be placed to the credit of Fairfax County Chapter at that time for February. She also reported that the Red Cross will not furnish hospitalization and doctors' services, but will furnish what medical supplies are necessary in case of sickness.

The Fairfax County Chapter is to be the beneficiary of a unique program from February 20 through February 27. Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews of Fairfax County and Washington, is giving an exhibition of "ultra-modern" pictures in her studio, the former Episcopal Chapel, now known as the Enchanted Chapel on the Leesburg pike at Seminary. On Thursday the Quota Club of Washington will meet in the Andrews studio to visit the exhibition. The following day the house and exhibit will be turned over to the Red Cross for a week with Mrs. W. J. Cleveland, of Seminary, as local director. All proceeds will go to the Red Cross relief fund. On the last day Friday, February 27, Mrs. Andrews will personally auction the pictures for the benefit of the local Red Cross. Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Andrews will be assisted each day by three Red Cross members in uniform.

On Sunday night February 22, the Fort Hmphreys Post theater is giving a moving picture benefit for the county Red Cross drought relief fund by special permission of the War Department. Fraternal organizations in Mount Vernon and Lee districts and the families are planning to attend the show in a body. They will assemble first in the post gymnasium.

The National Red Cross has sent 100 packages of seed for the spring planting in Fairfax County for distribution through the local chapter of the Red Cross. These packages furnish seed for variety of green vegetables sufficient to plant about a quarter acre of garden and provide the needs of a family of five. About four pounds of seed is contained in each package.

Jessie French, of Alexandria was sentenced to 30 days in jail and to pay court costs on a charge of contempt of court by Justice of the Peace C. C. Cockerill, at Fairfax. The jail sentence was suspended, according to County Policeman A. W. Mills, who made the arrest. French had been summoned to appear in a case before Justice Cockerill and was under a $100 personal bond for his appearance. When the case came to trial French failed to appear and the trial was postponed and French again was summoned. When he failed to appear on the second call, Justice Cockerill ordered his arrest.

The funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2 at the Holbrook home on Cedar avenue in Fairfax. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Royal A. Rice, pastor of the Southern Methodist Church, at Fairfax. Burial will follow in the Fairfax Cemetery.

Mrs. Holbrook would have been 95 years old this May. She was born and had lived all her life in Fairfax, with the exception of a short time passed in Baltimore soon after her marriage to Capt. Thomas Holbrook, of the Confederate Army. Until about two months ago she was exceptionally active, when she contracted a cold which she was unable to conquer. She was the daughter of the late Frederick D. Richardson and sister of F. W. Richardson, the present county clerk of Fairfax County. Her father and brother have jointly held the office as clerk of the old county court and later the present circuit court for more than 100 years continuously.

COMRADES ATTEND RITES FOR EDWARDS

General Is Placed in Grave Beside Wife, Daughter at Arlington.

HIGH OFFICIALS PRESENT

In the presence of high Government and military officials assembled in Arlington Cemetery yesterday, the body of Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., retired, war-time commander of the Twenty-sixth "Yankee" Division, was lowered to its final resting place in the southern end of the cemetery, by the side of his wife and daughter.

President Hoover was represented at the service by Maj. Gen. A. J. Bowley, while Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army chief of staff, represented the War Department. Gov. Cass of Rhode Island, and Brig. Gen. John H. Agnew, adjutant general of Massachusetts, headed a delegation of New Englanders who came to the funeral.

The body of Gen. Edwards arrived at Union Station early yesterday morning, brought from Boston, where he died early Saturday morning following an operation. All day Sunday the body lay in state in the State House in Boston, where it was viewed by hundreds of his fellow-officers and former comrades in arms during the World War.

Escort at Station.

The funeral party was met at the station by a Fort Myer escort. The casket was placed on a caisson and the party proceeded slowly to the Fort Myer gates, where several hundred men who had served under Gen. Edwards in the New England division were waiting. Troops of the Third Cavalry Regiment, the white horse battery of the Sixteenth Field Artillery, and the Third Cavalry Band were in formation at the gates for the escort to the grave.

The honorary pallbearers were Brig. Gen. George S. Simonds, assistant chief of staff; Brig. Gen. John E. Bellinger, retired; Brig. Gen. Edward L. King, assistant chief of staff; Col. Harry N. Cootes, Third Cavalry, Fort Myer; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, Third Corps of Engineers; Col. M. E. Locke, retired, and Col. Mathews A. Delaney, Medical Corps.

Services at the grave were conducted by the Rev. Dr. C. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church here. Active pallbearers were selected from former comrades in the Twenty-sixth Division, who had served overseas with Gen. Edwards. Three volleys were fired over the grave by a squad from the Third Cavalry, and at the end of the service a bugler sounded "Taps."

Hoover Pays Tribute.

President Hoover, at the time he appointed Maj. Gen. Bowley to represent him at the funeral, sent the following message to Mrs. Lucia E. Otis, of Boston, Gen. Edwards' sister:

"Please accept the sincere sympathy of Mrs. Hoover and myself in the passing of your brother. The fine and devoted service of Gen. Edwards will long live in the grateful memory of his countrymen. His going will be universally mourned."

The Marine Corps, just a short while before the service was due to begin, learned that about 50 disabled veterans who were at Mount Alto Hospital and had served with Gen. Edwards, were unable to be at the service because only open trucks were available to transport them. The Marines immediately dispatched closed cars to the hospital for all the patients who were able to come.

SOUTHERN SENATORS HIT WET PLANK TRY

tive committee of the Democratic party insolently to fix the policies of the Democratic party and determine them, instead of leaving great questions of policy to our national convention and to representatives of the party in the House and upon this floor; if they advocate carrying out the will of these nullifiers of the Constitution to determine the policy of the Democratic party, they will meet defeat before the committee, in my opinion; and if they carry the committee, that committee will receive the worst drubbing that any set of men ever received in American politics in the next Democratic national convention."

Senator Morrison was the lone participant to speak of possible Democratic presidential candidates. He said Gov. Ritchie of Maryland "seeks the Presidency because he is the boldest nullifier in the State."

This precipitated an exchange between Morrison and Tydings during which the North Carolinian was called to order by Vice President Curtis for reflecting upon the Maryland State government.

Morrison challenged Raskob's leadership, asserting, "The only political significance Mr. Raskob has or ever will have is that he is the monumental mistake of our great candidate for President in 1928, the Hon. Alfred E. Smith.

"I deny that he has any influence," continued the North Carolinian, "or that he is any leader in the party. He is chairman of our committee because Gov. Smith made the monumental mistake of naming him for chairman; and as soon as we nominate another candidate for President, if not before, Mr. Raskob will disappear from American politics as suddenly as he entered, in my opinion."

Aside from a vigorous defense of Maryland's government, Senator Tydings declined to be drawn into the political discussion. He confined his attack to the dry law and gave notice he would offer an amendment to the Volstead act to make it apply to cider.

The Democratic Senate leaders likewise looked on silently. It is their private opinion that the controversial prohibition issue will not come up at the national committee meeting here next month. The Democratic deficit is understood to be the principal subject for discussion.

The Tydings resolution calling for the Wickersham Commission evidence, read in part:

"The commission be requested to send to the Senate, for its information in drafting the legislation recommended, a copy of all the testimony heard by it and of all the evidence laid before it, except so far as such testimony or evidence may have been received under the pledge of secrecy;

"The commission be requested to send to the Senate, for its information the reports of its experts who investigated the various phases of prohibition."

At commission headquarters the opinion was expressed the commission would have to decide what material could be submitted properly, and what withheld because of its being obtained under a pledge of secrecy.

The commission does not meet again until March 4, and if action is withheld until then Congress will have adjourned until December unless there is an extra session.

It was expected Chairman Wickersham would decide today upon his return from New York, whether action would be necessary by the full commission.

Report Due Today In Limerick Probe

Grand Jury Is Expected to Reveal Findings to Justice Gordon.

The District grand jury today is expected to make a report of its investigation into the mysterious death of Beulah Limerick, theatrical usher, who was found dead last December 31 at her home on Nineteenth street southeast near the District Jail.

While the report of the grand jury will not be made public until it is handed to Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court about noon, it was generally understood around the courthouse that there would be no indictment. The grand jury has been investigating the case since January 20. Four men are now in jail waiting the action of the grand jury. They are Patrolman Robert F. Langdon, Vernon Limerick, Richard Reed and William E. Paddy.

The grand jury is expected to make a recommendation that hospital internes who respond to death calls remain on the scene until the coroner arrives. The Limerick girl's death at first was recorded as due to a hemorrhage although later the undertaker discovered the bullet wound in her head.

ROBBERY THWARTED; THREE MEN SEIZED

Trio Captured Allegedly in Act of Cracking Safe at Hyattsville.

IN PRINCE GEORGES JAIL

Captured allegedly in the act of ripping open a safe in a Sanitary Grocery Co. store in Hyattsville early yesterday morning, three Baltimore men are held in the Prince Georges County Jail in Marlboro. Bond of $5,000 each was set.

The three were caught by Chief Deputy Tom Garrison and Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville. Mrs. Margaret Warwick, who lives next door to the store at the Baltimore boulevard and Arundel avenue, heard the trio at work and phoned police.

The three gave their names as Joseph Rose, Albert Orente and Lewis Gerome, all of Baltimore. They were given a preliminary hearing before Judge Herbert J. Moffat on charges of housebreaking and attempt to rob. Garrison said he had been told by Baltimore authorities that the men were known there as a gang of "safe-rippers" suspected of several other jobs.

The men had opened the outer part of the safe and were at work on the inner door when caught. They heard one of the officers at a rear door and started toward the front of the store, where the other one drew his gun on them. The safe contained only a small sum, as most of the week-end receipts had already been banked.

All were unarmed. A car was found nearby.

A bill providing for the incorporation of Cheverly is due to be introduced in the Legislature in the next ten days, the second incorporation bill to be entered at this term. Another one, for Seat Pleasant, is understood to be pending.

The bill will provide for a town of about 3 square miles, including South Cheverly. The maximum tax rate will be set at 25 cents on a valuation of about $500,000.

A special committee of citizens, headed by Fred W. Gast and including F. W. Nickel, Carl W. Riddle and Bert H. Wise, has already presented a draft of the legislation to State Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer. There were some technical matters in this that needed changing and it was withdrawn.

Under the county road law Cheverly, as an incorporated town, will receive from the county about $1,000 a year for the upkeep of streets in the town. Towns gets a rebate of 75 per cent of their road taxes for this purpose. They will also be able to finish the street lighting system partially installed when the community was developed by Wardman.

Francis Mitchell will represent the Riverdale Presbyterian Church tonight in an oratorical contest at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington, having won in the Riverdale contest held Sunday. He will speak on "All Life Is Stewardship."

In addition to winning a chance to represent his church in the Washington contest, he won a prize of $5. He also has a chance to take part in the national finals in Pittsburgh in May, if he wins the semifinals here tonight.

Second prize in the Riverdale contest was won by Miss Emily Wolfe and third was taken by George Myers. Judges were Dr. A. F. Woods, former president of the University of Maryland; Mrs. C. M. Conrad, of the Hyattsville Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. B. Andrew Matsen, of the Berwyn Presbyterian Church.

The first minstrel show and dance of the newly formed St. Jerome's Minstrels was held last night in the Masonic Hall in Hyattsville, under the direction of Mrs. F. J. Kaufman. Music was furnished by an orchestra from the University of Maryland.

Those who had part in the production were S. Harris, S. Fishkin, Art Pittaway, Joseph Keegin, W. A. Thorne, F. J. Hennig, Frank Howard, J. A. Hickey, Henry Walton, John Walton, F. J. Kaufman, J. T. Keating, S. A. Kelly, A. E. Maier, Stanley Bowers, Belton House, Dr. Hugh House, J. B. Waters, sr., J. B. Waters, jr., Charles Ervin, C. L. Aiello, A. C. Keegin, Matthew Weatley, J. S. Williams, Milton Jones and William Hall.

Installation of a water meter in the armory in Laurel will result in the end of the practice of giving a bath, a bed, and food to unemployed "drifters," according to Capt. Julian B. Anderson. The National Guard company can not allow its beds to be used until after occupants have taken a bath, and the baths will be too expensive, it is said.

In the past the water has been taken from the town's system without charge, but it will have to be paid for after March 1. Town authorities believe the State should pay for the water used by the guardsmen. Officers of the guard, however, say that much of the water is used by residents of the town who play basket ball.

MARYLAND EDITORS ASK BILLBOARD BAN

Association Supports Bills Pending Before State General Assembly.

URGE HALL OF RECORDS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 16.—The Maryland Press Association, in its annual session here today, went on record as favoring the campaign now being waged against billboards along public highways, and roadside advertising.

The association, composed chiefly of editors of weekly newspapers in all counties of the State, adopted a resolution especially disapproving of signboards at road intersections, and all other places along the highways where they present a hazard to safe driving.

The action was taken in line with proposed laws now before the General Assembly, one of which provides for a substantial license fee from all corporations or individuals erecting signs, and another for stricter enforcement of existing laws.

Both of these bill are sponsored by Oliver L. Metzerott, Republican floor leader, of the House of Delegates. The editors appointed a committee to wait upon the legislative committee when the bills come up for hearing. Named on the group are Leo P. Moore, of Havre de Grace, James P. Curley, of Laurel, and David S. Jenkins, Annapolis.

The editors also indorsed another legislative measure which provides for the erection at Annapolis of a "Memorial Hall of Record," in connection with the forthcoming tercentenary observance of the founding of the Commonwealth. This bill, introduced by State Senator Ridgely P. Melvin, Anne Arundel County, provides for a State loan of $500,000. All valuable records and documents of the State, from provincial times to the present, would be stored in the structure. Gov. Ritchie has suggested providing the financial set-up through the general construction loan. Meanwhile, he has named a committee headed by Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond, of the Court of Appeals, to make a survey of the records.

The editors also adopted a resolution expressing regret at the recent death of Mrs. Elizabeth Cabelle Ritchie, mother of the governor, a copy of which will be sent to the governor.

James P. Curley, of the Laurel Leader, was elected president of the association to succeed F. G. Stromberg, of the Howard County Times, and Samuel E. Shannahan, of the Easton Star Democrat, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SEASONAL THOUGHTS IN THE OGDEN NASH MANNER.

WITHIN another day or two I think I'll go to Florida,
Where in the daytime I'll get bored and the evenings boreda;
For going on a Southern jaunt I'm lacking quite in real excuses,
In fact I can not even say I'm troubled by my gastric juices;
I can not claim I'm overworked nor threatened with a nervous breakdown,
Nor fleeing from a woman, an indictment or a threatened shakedown.
The weather where I am is mild, and I perceive no signs of snowing,
But that is unimportant since I've made my mind up that I'm going.
For flu is in the air, they say, in crying down all forms of sneezing,
And I'll feel better far away from all the sounds of people wheezing.

• • • •

About this time of year I find that I've a yen to lie on beaches
In climates where they wear no coats and very seldom wear their breeches;
Where people loll upon the sands and watch their skins get very reddish,
Then after sunset drink a bit and have a dance, and so to beddish—
Where no one does a stitch of work and no one tolerates exertion
And people think a six weeks' loaf is just a very brief excursion—
Where pretty girls pour in each day by automobile, train and packet—
And life from any point of view is just an unrestricted racket.

• • • • •

I like to be where I can go in search of the elusive tarpon,
And, if I'm lucky, make a catch that I can mercilessly harp on;
I like to sit upon a yacht and hope to land the wily tuna,
No matter if it takes all morn and also all the afternoona;
The kingfish, too, I like to catch if I can not get something bigger,
Considering its size, in fact, the kingfish has a lot of vigor;
And when we dock I always like to have my silly picture taken
Beside a fish I didn't catch, for I don't mind a little fak'n.

• • • • •

I LIKE to hear the birdies sing and chatter in the tall palmettoes;
I love friend chicken, Southern style, with waffles and fried sweet patettoes;
To me there's charm where crickets chirp and frogs are honking in the meadows,
And no one ever hears of snow and no one ever slides on sleddoes;
It's quite a kick to walk about in one-piece suit and native sandals
And never hear a mention of those Northern snow removal scandals;
But best of all in Southern climes, where life is one long spell of summer,
There's consolation in the thought I'll never have to call a plumber.

• • • • •

These are the days when I've the urge to cultivate the Southern habit
And watch the dog fly 'round the track preceded by the dummy rabbit—
When afternoons I'd like to watch the races out at Hialeah
And put two dollars on a skate and see the money disappeah—
When I would love to play some golf, bareheaded and in clothing scanty,
And feel as unimpeded as this Indian Mahatma, "Ganty;"
And, feeling thus, I think I'll pack and journey where it's hot and sunny—
Provided you or some one else can tell me where to get the money.

Accident Alleged As Child Is Shot

Annapolis Boy, 9, Held to Be in Dangerous Condition.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 16.—With a bullet wound through the head, Wilbur Palmer, 9-year-old son of Howard Palmer, is in a precarious condition in Annapolis Emergency Hospital tonight. Carroll Withers, Palmer's son-in-law, is being held under bail, pending an investigation by Deputy Sheriff Walter Musterman.

The shooting, which is said to have been accidental, occurred at the Palmer home on the Old South River Ferry road, 3 miles from the city, yesterday afternoon. The bullet was from a .32-caliber revolver.

Withers told Deputy Sheriff Musterman that he and Wilbur were in a room together and that he asked the boy to go into an adjoining room and get him a handkerchief. When the lad returned, according to Withers, he grabbed the pistol, which was lying on a table, and playfully aimed it at Withers, who said he had been reclining on a bed. Withers jumped to his feet. At that time, he said, the weapon was discharged and Wilbur Palmer fell to the floor unconscious. Withers brought the injured boy to the hospital, and Palmer furnished $500 bail for Withers.

JURY CONCESSION GRANTED IN SLAYING

Selection of Panel Outside County Is Ordered in Virginia Case.

VENUE CHANGE DENIED

Boydton, Va., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Judge N. S. Turnbull, jr., today refused a change in venue, but granted a change in venire for Garland Smith, 23, whose new trial on the charge of killing Deputy Sheriff Bernard Puryear was set today for April 22.

In refusing the defense motion for a change in venue, the court said he thought the accused could get a fair trial in Mecklenburg County, but that he believed he could not conveniently get a jury in this county. For that reason he said, he would order a change in venire, the jurors to be selected from some county other than Mecklenburg.

Defense counsel for Smith, who has fought for his life through two murder trials, filed a petition in court today for the change of venue. Each side was allowed two hours for argument.

The Commonwealth's argument against the petition was presented principally by Y. M. Hodges. He objected to the wording of the petition, and asserted that it would place on trial the court, the Commonwealth's attorney, the jury, the sheriff and at least one witness. He declared that the petition did not set forth the proper grounds for a change.

Let us show you with pencil and paper that it costs no more to own a

PACKARD

We are offering a new type of motor car demonstration this Spring.

We are demonstrating that you—if you are driving a car of like size, whatever its price—can own a Packard Standard Eight at no increase in cost.

It is really quite simple. You will learn that it costs as much to maintain and operate your present car as it would the Packard. That leaves only depreciation to consider. And that is no greater when you drive the Packard proportionately longer — as most Packard owners do.

Of course these are general statements. What we would like to do is make them specific. If you will come in and give us the figures on your present motoring costs, we will set down Packard costs in a parallel column—and let you be the judge.

The Packard Standard Eight is priced at the factory from $2385 to $2385. If you prefer a larger model, the Packard DeLuxe Eight is available at factory prices ranging from $3490 to $4285—and Individual Custom creations up to $10,000.

The Packard Standard Eight is the most popular Packard car—the largest selling fine car in the world. If you buy one you will probably keep it nearly twice as long as the car you traded in on it. Many take delivery of one of these fine cars with little or no cash outlay, taking advantage of our Payment Plan and of our allowance for the used car against the down payment.

Why not come in and let us demonstrate Packard ownership costs—then let us appraise your present car at its full cash value? You are actually paying for a Packard—why not own one?

HEAVY TAXES IN SIGHT.

The House threw caution to the winds in its vote for increased loans to veterans. The warning of Secretary Mellon that such a draught upon the Treasury will derange the finances of the Nation and prolong business recovery was swept aside. The pleas of a few House leaders for common sense were unavailing.

The bill was adopted without amendment. It provides that all veterans holding adjusted compensation certificates may borrow up to 50 per cent of their value, which would create a liability of $1,700,000,000 against the Treasury. The bill carries no provision for raising money. Presumably the House intends that it should be financed by an increase in taxation. The measure now goes to the Senate. There is little hope that it will be materially changed there. Republican leaders who are personally opposed to disrupting the finances of the Government in this manner are apparently determined to throw upon President Hoover the burden of checking this irresponsible legislation.

There can be only one justification for liberalizing the adjusted compensation act at this time, and that is to extend relief to veterans in need. The Bacharach bill is not a true relief measure, but one to make vast sums of easy money available to veterans, whether they are in need or not. It would make available to the average veteran something over $500. Loans have been made so attractive that a large majority of veterans who have never been in financial difficulties will run into debt.

The fact that the Government is obligated to pay these certificates in 1945 does not enter into the situation. This legislation is proposed to meet an "emergency." For that purpose the amount made available is entirely out of proportion to the Treasury's resources. Relieving former service men at the average rate of $500 each means that all the people must bear a heavy increase in taxes. The House may consider its move popular now, but when it comes to levy higher taxes to replenish the depleted Treasury it may expect to reap the whirlwind.

This bill encourages veterans to dissipate their insurance, which, in a vast majority of cases, constitute their only assets. This is to be accomplished at a tremendous cost to business and to the tax-paying public. In the end the veterans themselves will suffer, and Congress will be called upon to make amends, at further cost to the taxpayers.

As this bill comes closer to enactment its folly becomes apparent to the entire country. Seldom has common sense been more in demand and less in evidence upon Capitol Hill. While there is yet time to avert the disaster that is threatened to the Treasury and the former soldiers of America, the Senate ought to weigh the matter carefully and with a greater sense of public responsibility than has been shown by the House.

PRICE OF BREAD AND MILK.

The most important testimony offered before the Senate food price investigating committee was that of W. M. Hornstein, president of the United Food Stores of Washington. Mr. Hornstein made the out-and-out charge that the baking corporations fix retail prices and force their maintenance by what amounts to intimidation. The price of bread in Washington, according to Mr. Hornstein, is fixed in New York. Retailers handling the products of a certain large baking corporation are not allowed to sell a loaf of bread for less than 10 cents, although they pay but 8 cents for it and could sell it for 9. "The prices of other food products have decreased about 20 or 25 per cent in the last several years," he added, "but this is not true of bread because the big baking corporations hold up the price."

Mr. Hornstein's testimony was so forceful and direct that it might well be made the basis of a Department of Justice investigation seeking to ascertain whether or not the antitrust or the trade practices acts are being violated. In justice to the corporations themselves this investigation should be ordered. For years there has been a steady diminution in the number of independent bakeries, until today bakery products are supplied almost exclusively by corporations. With the growth of the bakery corporation has arisen a persistent belief that prices are artificially maintained. The baking corporations themselves will insist upon a full and official inquiry if, as they allege, they are entitled to a clean bill of health.

The Capper committee will proceed on Tuesday to the investigation of the price of milk and dairy products. This investigation bids fair to parallel in its essential elements the investigation of the price of bread. The dairy corporation has come to supplant the small independent dairyman who in years gone by supplied the American housewife with milk, butter, eggs and cheese. The dairy corporations have insisted that they are better able to distribute dairy products economically than the independent dairymen, but the belief persists that the corporations are maintaining the price of dairy products at an artificially high level. It is high time that this be substantiated, if true, or that the dairy corporations be given a clean bill of health if they are entitled to it.

WHAT TARIFF DO DEMOCRATS WANT?

Representative Hull, senator-elect from Tennessee, assigns to himself the role of savior of the Democratic party. Mr. Hull sees the party drifting dangerously near to that treacherous shoal called prohibition. He steps forward and demands that the course be changed. Let not the good ship Democracy be wrecked in that wet and dry labyrinth!

Mr. Hull's statement is tantamount to a declaration of hostility to those Northern Democrats who insist on making the party wet for the 1932 campaign. He insists that "economic problems should come first on any Democratic national party program during the next two years." Like all other good Democrats, Mr. Hull is anxious to center the party's program upon those issues on which all factions can unite. But why should he have chosen the tariff as a harmony issue?

The Democrats can, of course, denounce the iniquities of the Republican tariff. By ignoring facts they can attribute the decline in international trade and the domestic business depression to the Smoot-Hawley act. But what formula can the Democratic party evolve for determination of its own tariff policy? Would Democratic senators who fought for higher rates on products of their home States in 1930 revision be willing to relinquish those advantages in the interests of a tariff for revenue only?

Representative Hull announces his own idealistic formula as follows: "Downward revision made carefully and gradually to a moderate or competitive level, with rates so adjusted, with the aid of a fact-finding commission, as to prevent conditions of domestic monopoly on the one hand, and to avoid abnormal or unreasonable imports against efficient industries operating under normal conditions on the other." When the Democrats assemble for their national committee meeting on March 5 there will probably be many such ambiguous gems presented for consideration. But the facts are that the party schisms on the tariff are more numerous and almost as unfathomable as those on prohibition.

When the Smoot-Hawley act was under consideration Democrats favored protection for their home industries and then voted against the bill. During the 1930 campaign few orators were bold enough to promise revision if the Democrats should gain control of Congress. If Mr. Hull intends to generate party harmony from this issue he certainly has a job on his hands. Of course, the Democrats can join in condemnation of the "Republican tariff," just as they can denounce the prohibition policy of the present administration, but when they attempt to bring forth their own remedial program they are confronted with an ordeal of vivisection whichever way they turn.

FEDERAL RATINGS AND PROMOTIONS.

The recommendations for revision of the classification act made by the personnel classification board pursuant to a request of Congress contained in the Welch act of 1928 require thorough study before they are acted upon. The board's report covers some 400 pages. It makes recommendations that would change the status of 50,000 Government workers situated in Washington and more than 100,000 located in the field. The proposed new legislation will probably be introduced before the end of the present session in order that it may be placed formally before the public, but it will not receive serious consideration until the next session.

Briefly, the board proposes many increases in salary, but no decreases; it recommends semiautomatic increases in salary and the abolition of the present system of efficiency ratings; it suggests that the much criticized "average provision" of the present bill be done away with; it advocates the establishment of three new services, and it recommends that special provision be made for certain groups of positions, such as crews of vessels and the mechanical trades, in which conditions of work are peculiar and not like those of the regular full-time Government positions. With respect to the abolition of the "average provision" and the substitution of a system of semiautomatic salary increases for the present system of efficiency ratings the recommendations of the board appear to mark a step forward.

The board proposes that department heads be permitted to rate their employes as "good," "fair" or "unsatisfactory." An employe who is rated "good" would be automatically advanced once each year to the next higher salary rate within the range for the class and grade he occupies, provided Congress shall have appropriated funds for such increases, until he reaches the maximum rate for such class and grade as specified in the salary schedule. Employes who are rated "fair" would not be eligible for increases and if they were receiving a salary higher than the middle rate for their grade they would be demoted one grade. Those rated "unsatisfactory" would be demoted to a lower grade or class or dismissed. One of the most attractive features of the recommendation is its essential simplicity. It would replace the present involved and, to many employes, mystifying classification system with a promotional system that even the most elementary intelligence could readily comprehend.

The recommendations meet with the general approval of the Federation of Federal Employes. "We wish particularly to commend," says the president of the federation, "recommendations for periodical increases in salary within grades; for abolition of the so-called average provisions; for wage-fixing machinery for mechanical and labor groups whose compensation bears a direct relation to the prevailing rate in the community, and for the virtual abandonment of the present complicated and elaborate efficiency rating system." Praise from this organization, which has been fighting to such good effect for the improvement of the position of the Federal worker, sends the report off to a flying start.

CHINESE MAIL

M. G., in the Christian Science Monitor.

If you are a Chinese and you want to deliver your grandmother to a relative in Ningpo you just hand her over to the Min-chu, a private postal company. It will take care of her and see that she gets to her destination safely. All you have to do is to put a label on her stating her value and where she is going. You can pay postage for her before she leaves or put a C. O. D. sign on her, and the relative in Ningpo can pay. A good way to do is to split the postage—you paying half and the relative paying half on delivery. That will more or less insure her safe and prompt arrival, too, since the carrier is always eager to get his commission.

This form of service has been going on for generations among the Chinese natives, particularly in small towns. Any one can start such an unofficial postoffice and work up a clientele. Letters, drafts, cabbages, parcels, hats, mothers-in-law! everything imaginable is carried to its destination by the private mails. Customers are solicited, and there are sometimes several postal services in one village.

They also take charge of almost any other kind of mission. Thus, if a carrier comes up by boat to Shanghai a Woosung citizen can confide to his postoffice that he has seen a hat on his neighbor which he admires. The neighbor is inclined to be exclusive about information regarding his attire, and therefore, since a duplicate of the hat would be desirable, it is requested of the mail carrier that while he is in Shanghai he go to all the shops and see if he can find another hat like the neighbor's. The mail carrier agrees and usually brings home what is asked. Likewise if strawberries are in the market in Shanghai and haven't yet been uncrated in Woosung he will take orders and bring them back.

Every means of conveyance is used for this service. Runners usually carry letters from one family to another. Love letters, or other important documents which require prompt delivery, are scorched on one corner. If there is need for an extraordinary amount of haste a small red feather is poked through the envelope. No stamps are put on the letters, as the carriers collect at the other end. Trading vessels and canal boats are used for out-of-town delivery. Bicycles are found to be very convenient for package delivery. Wire baskets are placed on the handlebars and even may be strapped to the back of the seat.

The less wealthy carriers use wheelbarrows for package delivery. Even brides are sometimes taken from one village to another on wheelbarrows, although the more popular bridal coach carried by four men is used if it can be afforded. Fast special services are maintained for important parcels and brides. Sometimes the service stays open until after midnight if business interests demand it.

In the provinces of Chekiang and Fukien nearly every small village has a private letter runner who serves all the families. He usually has a boat in connection with a seaport. Several times a month he goes round to every family and collects mail, vegetables and visiting relatives and takes them to the city. When he returns he brings back mail, new dresses and more relatives. Every one in the village goes down to see him off and every one is there to welcome him back. His job passes to his eldest son, or, if his eldest son has been cut from family favor by misbehavior, the next eldest gets the job. If the letter runner has no son he grandly bequeaths his remunerative duties to his nearest and dearest friend.

WEDDING PLANS.

It's all planned and settled. They'll be married very soon.
I think that Ma's decided on an early day in June,
And I chuckle as I watch her in her most efficient way
Already giving orders for that coming wedding day;
At the slightest provocation into action mother springs
And it's plain to everybody that she's taken hold of things!

When I whisper: "Ma, remember, you have had your wedding day
And perhaps these happy youngsters feel they'd like a word to say."
She replies: "I'm only helping with my counsel and advice.
Only just a little anxious to have everything that's nice;
And they're both so young and loving —they prefer to bill and coo
While I plan their wedding for them
—It's a job I like to do!"

Well, I'm sitting by and watching, and I chuckle to myself
As Ma tells what pots and skillets shall fill up the pantry shelf.
And I chuckle as she tells them just what furniture to buy
Or just what extra pieces friends and kinsfolk may supply.
When that little home is finished it will be the dwelling grand Which the bride's devoted mother has for ages dreamed and planned.

And the more I think about it all the more I'm moved to say That a mother's best adventure is her daughter's wedding day.
From the coming of the baby, through the journey of the years
She is planning for that moment when the bridegroom-to-be appears.
And the minute things are settled, till the hour the church bell rings,
It's a mother's blessed privilege to take command of things.

The Sooner You Learn the Neighbors Won't Help, the Sooner You'll Tackle the Job Alone.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

INTELLIGENT people are those who face the facts as they are, without any effort to "kid" themselves.

To believe that certain things are true because one desires them to be true is stupid and childish.

The sane and practical way to solve any public problem is first to discover and eliminate the dreams that are hopeless, so that no time and energy will be wasted on them.

To recognize the truth, bitter though it may be, is to avoid the chief causes of failure. A correct diagnosis is half of the cure.

Thus any intelligent effort to solve the liquor problem must disregard the things that might be and concentrate on the things that are.

Back of the problem, complicating and perpetuating it, are two hard facts that can not be evaded or wished away.

The first is that the eighteenth amendment, making an outlaw of liquor, is in the Constitution hard and fast and will remain there.

It will remain because the inland States, largely rural and almost wholly dry, are sufficient in number to thwart any effort to remove or change it.

Each of these States contains many people who drink and many people who make and sell liquor, but the majority in each is uncompromisingly dry and is sufficiently zealous and militant to control any legislature or constitutional convention that may be called upon to reconsider prohibition.

These States, containing much less than one-third of the national population, nevertheless have the power to keep their definition of righteousness in the Constitution, and they will keep it there until the crack of doom.

It takes years and millions of dollars and the fervor of a moral crusade to amend our Constitution. Appetite can't do it.

The second hard fact is that large cities and border regions disregard the eighteenth amendment, and neither this nor any subsequent administration is likely to employ sufficient force to impose prohibition on them against their will.

We have, then, the assurance of perpetual prohibition, effective in the regions that desire it and without effect in the more populous centers where public opinion resents it. We have, in short, local option.

But with prohibition in the Constitution to stay, and the border regions supporting an outlaw traffic that has no standing in court, we have a rich and powerful criminal element whose monopoly of the liquor business is guaranteed by the Constitution!

That is the real problem. And somehow the border regions must solve it by themselves, for the inland States, content with things as they are, never will give an inch to change the present status.

Detroit Free Press.

While it is true that at this stage of the game the people of the United States really are anxious to have Congress do just one thing, pass the appropriations bill, shut up shop and go home, and while the Nation will be inclined to condone other sins of omission if only the body will arrange matters so that there will be no extra session, it does not follow that the country is going to be pleased with the record made by its legislators in Washington since last December, or that they are without blame.

The country needs the enactment of practical measures dealing with limitation of immigration, with the regulation of motor buses and trucks in interstate commerce, with the development of aircraft and with several other similar matters. But it is too late for anything of that sort now. Lacking some veritably miraculous change of heart and method in Congress, the record is made. The Nation must put up with as notorious a service of incompetency and contemptibleness as any Congress ever has achieved, and be thankful it was no worse.

A Job for Einstein.

Minneapolis Journal.

J. R. McCarl, Comptroller General of the United States, who audits accounts for Government employes, kept the Senator Nye expense account for three days and then gave it up with the admission that it was too tangled for him to audit. It should have been submitted to Dr. Einstein, who is still in this country.

No Political Federal Judges.

Brooklyn Citizen (Dem.)

President Hoover, as was to be expected, is standing by his Attorney General Mitchell in the latter's controversy with Senator Schall over the appointment of a Federal judge of a Minnesota district.

It so happens that both Attorney General Mitchell and Senator Schall are residents of Minnesota. The Attorney General, therefore, is a better judge of the bar of Minnesota and political conditions existing in that State than he would be in any other State in the Union.

The Citizen indorses the President's stand in this matter. There have been too many Federal judges appointed for political reasons only, and in most of these cases the appointees have not measured up either in legal ability or private virtues. The Federal judiciary needs strengthening and the course pursued by Attorney General Mitchell and the President in the Mitchell case is bound to have an excellent effect in raising the standards of candidates hereafter recommended by senators for this position.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Another Sign of Spring—Dr. Bleacher Actually Boasts of Being a Baseball Fan, and Awaits the Fateful Crack.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With no need to worry over the stitching on the ball and free from distracting holdouts, what the Old Fox is thinking down at Biloxi must be far froom gloomy. He may very well congratulate himself on the difference between his present soft job and his more or less hectic early managerial experience in Cincinnati and New York, and I likewise, as training-camp adumbrations begin to overspread the land, am congratulating myself this morning that baseball is my hobby.

As a usual thing hobbies do not thrive in the careless activities of our sappy years. We make their acquaintance later, when they are needed to lighten the stern realities of life. And the good thing about it is that there is such an unlimited lot of hobbies for everybody to choose from.

It is the hobby of some to cultivate a garden patch. Some fish. Some play golf, some collect costly bric-a-brac and other works of art, while others collect bugs of one kind or another.

Mine, I am glad to say, is the baseball hobby. It calls for no particular mental or physical effort, and there is a sort of uplift in the thought that it is enjoyed in common with thousands of inveterate fellow-hobbyists in the ranks of the baseball fans. As a hobby calculated to give an old scout a run for his money it is in a class by itself.

It is greatly to the credit of the baseball hobby that, although the highest enjoyment of its kick is in the summer, it has all seasons for its own. In the fall and in midwinter its rejuvenating influence is kept alive by occasional bits of baseball gossip in the sporting columns of the press. In the spring the fancy of the tired business man and other hard-working he-men lightly turns to thoughts of training camp activities.

This spring we of Washington can thank our stars—and there are some bright particular stars in our line-up—that, due to the steadying influence of last year's teamwork, the coming season will see the Griffs up there contending for the pennant from the first crack of the bat.

Joe Begley Defends Irish and Scotch Peoples When No One Attacks Them.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to Mr. Neil McGowan's letter on Mr. Daly's use of the word "quaff," I venture, as a conscientious defender of the drinking capacity of my fellow-Irish and our cousins, the Scotch, to disagree with your caption to Mr. McGowan's letter: "Scotchman Questions Irishman's Knowledge of Beer-Drinking."

As expert manufacturers and appreciative drinkers of the best and mildest whisky in the world, no self-respecting Irishman or Scotchman would deign to consider beer. We leave that to the scottish and phlegmatic Saxon and Teuton.

Secondly, I fail to see why you should assume (except perhaps through personal acquaintance with the gentleman) that Neil McGowan is a Scottish person. Ireland originally peopled Scotland, and the latter revenged themselves by coming back with Elizabeth and Cromwell. Both "Neil" and "McGowan" are good old Ulster names—"McGowan," after all, being only the Gaelic equivalent of the universal "Mr. Smith."

As to the relative merits of the Falstaffian "quaff" and the swinish "guzzle," we of the more delicate and poetic races, such as the Irish and Scotch, would never dream of referring to drink—even after the consumption of several quarts—as any more than "just a wee small drop."

American Ships Built in American Yards of American Material—Why Not American Crews?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I read with interest Mr. Chapman's (United States Lines) address on the building of American ships in American yards of American material by American workmen, and no doubt with money to a certain extent furnished by the American Government. I did not notice any explicit reference to the personnel of the crews. However, as a member of the stewards' or commissary department I would like to call attention to the manning of so-called American passenger ships, both coastwise and foreign. With hundreds of capable cooks and stewards (of every branch) idle at present, it is very hard to see those fine ships carrying to a very large extent alien crews, to the exclusion of American citizens who have spent years in the American merchant marine. The above is common knowledge on the waterfront and can easily be verified.

What is the use of building American flagships with American money if, as in the case of passenger ships, the largest department, numerically, is to be manned by aliens? Let an American cook or steward try to get a job on any foreign flag line—Cunard, French, Spanish Mail, German Lloyd or Italian—and see what show he has. FRANK HUGHES.

Neglected Correspondence Causes Loss of Business.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was recently reminded of a feature in our commercial and industrial life that is not given deserved attention. I refer to the matter of correspondence, which too often is neglected indifference, or, without giving it systematic consideration.

I am aware of several instances, where a prospective mail order customer decided against making further purchases, because of correspondence not replied to. Inattention to the prompt and courteous consideration of correspondence means a loss in revenue or good will.

In recent years the tendency to economize in the matter of letters has been noticeably apparent. Correspondence has the same relative value in business that advertising develops. It is an efficient method of creating a personal interest in a firm and its goods.

GERMANY TO PROFIT BY SALE OF SHARES

Underwritings of National Railways Will Yield $72,000,000.

FRENCH BANK IN GROUP

Berlin, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—After protracted and difficult negotiations, the exchequer of the Reich is assured of 300,000,000 marks ($72,000,000) being entered in the 1930 budget as the proceeds from the sale of federal railways preference shares.

Th federal finance ministry announced today this sum would go into the budget year ending March 31 by means of an arrangement concluded with Lee Higginson & Co., of New York, and ten other financial distributors.

About 188,500,000 marks ($43,320,000) had previously been obtained on the security of these shares, mostly from big insurance or underwriting companies, and as the end of the fiscal year neared the government was anxious to be assured of the remainder that the budget might be passed.

Under the new plan the balance of the 300,000,000 marks is made up, or 119,500,000 marks ($28,680,000). This amount was placed at the disposal of the German government at 6½ per cent discount.

Government and financial circles were greatly pleased by the news, especially since one French bank, dspite adverse interpellations in the Chamber of Deputies, is participating in the financial arrangement.

The banks figuring in the transaction are Lee Higginson & Co., the Banque de Paris et des Pays Bas, the Swiss Kreditanstalt, the Swiss Bankverein, M. M. Rothschild & Sons, Baring Bros. Co., Ltd., Higginson & Co., J. H. Schroeder & Co., Mendelssohn & Co., Nederlandsche Handel Maatschappy and Skandinaviska Kreditaktieriolaget.

News Photograph Firm Honors 26th Birthday

The firm of Harris & Ewing, established in Washington in 1904 after a survey of a number of other cities, today will celebrate its twenty-sixth anniversary. A business begun in a small building with five employes is now housed on the same site in a modern five-story structure with nearly 100 employes.

George W. Harris, president of the concern, yesterday related how he, with his partner, met one morning in Chicago 26 years ago and wrote their first, second and third choice for a studio location on individual slips. Washington was first on each. The firm started out to photograph every person in the city likely to figure in the news, and its file of negatives now numbers 1,500,000.

General Strike Looms.

Hendaye, France, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Reports were heard in this frontier city today that a general strike of all Spanish workmen will be declared at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning in protest against the continuation of the Spanish monarchy.

Travelers arriving from Spain today asserted the strike would have a distinctively revolutionary character.

All appearances indicated tonight that Spanish authorities were preparing to close the frontier as soon as the Queen of Spain enters tomorrow morning. The queen has been visiting her ill mother in London and is on her way to Madrid.

REVISED PAY CLASSIFICATION FOR CIVIL SERVICE IS URGED

the Government, though private employers generally do not provide retirement systems; applicants for Government jobs under the civil service must pass more exacting and thorough examinations than employes in private industry; leave provisions in the Government service in general are more liberal than in private employ; although, in general, the Government pay scale below $2,000 a year is higher than in private employ, there is a "considerable number" of private employers who pay higher rates than the Government in the lower grades; above $3,800 Government pay is lower than private pay and the discrepancy grows as importance of work increases.

Under the proposed new classification employes would be divided into seven salary groups, with the pay of certain employes left to be fixed by the classification board.

Increase Rate Higher.

The first of seven groups proposed was professional and scientific, with salaries ranging from $2,050 for grade one to $10,000 or more for grade nine, but no annual increases would be provided above $8,500.

Grade increases, in general, would be higher than those provided under the present law. In the first grade of the first group, annual increases would be $120 the first year to $150 the last year of increase. The smallest annual increase was proposed for the crafts and custodial service, employes in grade one of which would receive, when rated "good," an increase of $60 a year, going from a starting pay of $600 a year to $900.

Sixteen grades are provided for the clerical, administrative and fiscal group. In grade 1 the starting salary would be $1,260, as at present, with an annual increase of $90. In grade 16 the salary would be $10,000 and no annual increases were set forth. Grade 2 would have a starting salary of $1,440; grade 3, $1,620, and grade 4, $1,820, as compared with $1,800 under the present law.

Plan Three New Groups.

In general the annual increases would be in ratio to the beginning salary mounted.

Three new groups were proposed. These were inspectional and investigational, with 12 grades, with salaries ranging from $1,620 in grade 1 to $9,500 in grade 13; light-keeping and depot-keeping, with 10 grades, with a salary range of $1,260 to $2,300; and educational, with 10 grades, and a salary range from $1,410 to $6,000.

Salaries quoted are those at entrance and would be subject, with a few exceptions, to annual increases. Details of the proposed new grouping and grades and salaries are shown in the board's tables printed in another column.

Certain groups of positions would be excluded from the proposed salary schedules, and though the employes would be placed under the new law, different procedures for fixing their pay were proposed.

Groups which would be given individual attention included: mechanical trades, skilled or unskilled laborers, officers or members of a crew of a vessel; "and other groups which require special consideration or in which the conditions of work are peculiar and unlike those of the regular, full-time Government positions."

Ask Uniform System.

The board proposed that the salaries of these employes "be fixed and adjusted from time to time by the board so as to conform, as nearly as is consistent with the public interest, with the prevailing rates for similar positions under similar employment conditions in private establishments in the locality where the work is performed or where employment is made."

The suggestion that provision be made for variation in salaries to meet local conditions in the field service was vetoed by the classification board, which declared in favor of "one uniform system" in the departmental and field service.

Under existing law, it said, there "is no uniformity of pay for similar work in field positions; and titles of positions in many instances are meaningless or misleading and unreliable for purposes of personnel administration.

Score Present System.

"Special salary differentials are recommended," the report said, "to offset such factors as isolation, hazard, and service outside the continental United States. Geographical differentials, sometimes called location allowances, to care for differences in cost of living are thought to be theoretically desirable but impossible of practical achievement and are therefore "not recommended."

The present "average" provision governing salaries, the report said, "has resulted in unfairness to certain groups of employes and unless it is abandoned, the semiautomatic salary increases will be impossible."

JUDGE C. F. JONES DIES OF AUTO INJURY

United States Attorney Is Victim of Accident of 10 Months Ago.

BURIAL TO BE IN INDIANA

Judge Charles F. Jones, United States attorney, died at his apartment in the Lafayette Hotel yesterday morning from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on the night of April 21, 1930, as he was leaving a banquet at another local hotel. His strength, physicians say, has been ebbing since that time.

He was born near Brookville, Ind., in 1856, the youngest son of John and Maria Colescott Jones. After completing the study of law in the University of Virginia he was admitted to the bar and practiced in Brookville for twenty years, or until 1901.

It was at that time that the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission was created and he was called to Washington to represent the United States in the defense of claims before the commission. In 1904 he went to Spain and there organized the work of the commission, and in 1905 went to Cuba for the same purpose.

Admitted to Supreme Court Bar.

In 1905 he was admitted to the bar of the United States Supreme Court, and when the claims commission was dissolved in 1910 he was designated by Attorney General George W. Wickersham to close up its business and make a report of the proceedings for the entire period of its activity.

It was Judge Jones' intention to reenter private practice of law at this time, but a few days after completion of the work which the Attorney General had appointed him to do he was appointed to a position in the Department of Justice to defend the Government in suits brought in the Court of Claims, a position which he held until his death.

He was an ardent and active Republican and was prominent in the affairs of his State. Public office did not appeal to him, however, and he steadfastly refused to be a candidate for or accept any position outside of the law. In 1896 he was an elector at large on the national ticket and a member of the Electoral College, participating in casting Indiana's vote for William McKinley for President and for Garret Hobart for Vice President. In 1900 he was a delegate to the convention in Philadelphia which nominated McKinley to succeed himself and Theodore Roosevelt for Vice President.

Admirer of Associates.

Although he was a Republican, he was said to be the closest adviser and associate of the two Democratic Assistant Attorney Generals who presided through this period over the division charged with the defense of the Government before the Court of Claims.

Judge Jones' wife, Mary Rose Jones, to whom he was married in 1879, died in 1909. His only surviving relatives are a grand-nephew, William Walker, of Louisville, Ky.; a niece, Mrs. Joseph V. Breitwieser, of Grand Forks, N. Dak., and Fred D. Rose, a banker in Muncie, Ind.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at the Almus R. Speare funeral home, 1623 Connecticut avenue. The Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, of the Foundry Methodist Church, will officiate at the services, and the body will be sent to Brookville, Ind., for interment.

Closing Date Set By Tobacco Board

February 27 Selected as Final Market Date at Petersburg.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 16.—The Petersburg Tobacco Board of Trade at a meeting held today decided to close sales here for the season on February 27.

Light sales of the last few weeks definitely indicate that the bulk of the current crop has been marketed. It is expected that the entire crop will have been marketed not later than February 27.

The Petersburg market, with sales up to this time which are far ahead of last year, expects to bring the total of sales for the season to the mark of 5,000,000 pounds before the market is closed for the season.

STEPS BEGUN TO AID UNDERFED STUDENTS

Teachers Launch Canvass to Learn Which Children Lack Lunch Funds.

RELIEF PROGRAM READY

Working quietly and diplomatically, public school teachers began a canvass yesterday of children who lack money to buy their lunches. Efforts were also being made to determine how many children go without breakfast or with insufficient meals before starting for school in the morning.

Officials at the Franklin School are eagerly awaiting results of the canvass. Returns from most of the divisions in the public school system are expected by tomorrow afternoon. In this case the Board of Education, which meets tomorrow afternoon, may make definite recommendations for methods to relieve conditions if the situation is found to require emergency attention.

The District Congress of Parent-Teachers Associations stands ready to put the relief work into action. A committee has been appointed to direct the work if emergency measures are recommended by the Board of Education. Parent-Teacher associations have always conducted some relief work, but the purpose of the present survey is to determine how many children, in addition to the usual number of poverty-stricken, are receiving aid.

The fact that a larger number of children than usual are without money to buy lunches was brought to the attention of the Board of Education by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, after the superintendent learned that some teachers were buying food for the poor children.

This philanthropic work is carried on without the children being aware of the aid they are receiving and, in most cases, without the knowledge of the parents, it is pointed out. In view of this, teachers, in making the survey, are being cautioned to be especially tactful in obtaining the necessary information so as to avoid arousing the suspicions of the children themselves, other and more fortunate children and that class of impoverished but proud parents who would be offended to a point of indignation if they knew their children were being made the objects of charity.

EIGHTY-SIXTH ANNUAL STATEMENT

To the Policy-holders:

Most of us have labored together for a considerable period.

My service in Nylic has covered forty-two years. I have been President of New York Life Insurance Company for nearly twenty-four years.

In twenty-four years you have numerically been multiplied by three; and your collective property in this Company has been multiplied by three and a half.

You have made a great demonstration within a generation of the power that lies in co-operation between "humans." You have become increasingly convinced of two great truths.

First—that "no man liveth to himself," and the less he tries to do that the more truly and fully he lives.

Second—that men are naturally honest and that those in positions of responsibility and trust in business are more honest and much more capable than men are as a whole.

Emerging from the frightful financial disasters of 1930, people are wondering if it was all or in large part necessary. They are asking why such heart-breaking experiences should not naturally cease in countries organized to preserve the strength and the inspiration that lie in individual efforts and in the ownership of private property.

American life insurance reaches its present greatness just in time to answer that question. It is true that we have had in this the freest and most individualistic section of the world (United States and Canada) a disturbing experience. Could it have been avoided substantially? I answer it could and some day such happenings will be largely avoided.

As we emerge from this setback in our economic system we discover that one thing remains unchanged and substantially unaffected.

It is almost literally true that every man who owns property is poorer today than he was a year ago; but to the extent that his possessions are represented by Life Insurance he is as rich today as he was a year ago.

They (his Life and Endowment policies) have not shrunk in value—except as he may have used them as collateral to relieve his needs in other directions.

Suppose the total outstanding insurance a year ago had been 220 billions instead of half that—suppose the assets of the Companies had been 38 billions instead of half that. How much less would the speculation and loss have been in 1930?

Life Insurance Companies will ultimately achieve those totals and greater ones and they will yearly represent an increasing and conservative factor in the whole property problem.

Life Insurance assets are not used speculatively. With relation to our total national wealth those assets represent a steadily increasing factor. They increase the factor of stability and decrease the factor of chance. That gain has been steady for almost a quarter century. Outstanding insurance will double and assets will double long before the wealth of these countries doubles. The lesson of it all is that economic changes of profound significance and of fundamental importance are taking place as the result of the amazing growth of Life Insurance. Life Insurance does all that its devotees have claimed and now it emerges from this world catastrophe substantially untouched and rendering a public service that few people ever realize.

IT WAS ORGANIZED TO MITIGATE THE TERRORS OF DEATH. IT HAS BECOME A VALIANT AND AN INCREASING DEFENSE AGAINST THE ECONOMIC DISASTERS THAT PERIODICALLY DEVASTATE THE BUSINESS WORLD.

In other words, we are, through Life Insurance, in these great, free countries, preserving individual enterprise and the rights of individual wealth and at the same time we are utilizing the almost immeasurable power of united and common action.

We are gaining on economic disaster and we shall go on gaining because Life Insurance will go on gaining.

In free countries there is no way to stop speculation; to do that arbitrarily would not be consistent with the principles of freedom. But! Yes, a great big But! When Life Insurance has become the great reservoir into which the people put their savings increasingly, speculation will become relatively less and we shall finally have adopted almost imperceptibly, a new economic program.

This will be founded on co-operation, brains and fidelity. That's a pretty good description of the elements that have made our Life Companies great—co-operation, brains, fidelity and, I add, hard work.

The balance-sheet below will show what a splendid part your Company is playing in the total.

WASHINGTON ALMOST UPSETS O.G.'s APPLECART

RIPLEY GETS LOW-DOWN ON CAPITAL'S CIGARETTE PREFERENCES

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Creator of "Believe It or Not"

It is easy to start an argument in Washington.

I stopped off there the other day to take a poll of the city's cigarette taste. As usual, I masked the four leading cigarettes with black bands . . . and then asked 874 smokers to pick out the cigarette that tasted best.

Did those famous statesmen give OLD GOLD the same rousing majority it has won in other cities? No, folks, they did not.

It was a close squeak. But in spite of filibusters, insurgents and stand-patters, OLD GOLD nosed out its rivals in the final count.

The score was: OLD GOLD, 259; Brand X, 202; Brand Y, 224; Brand Z, 189.

Which goes to show . . . that not even Congressional blocs can block the nation's verdict that O. G. is the most appealing cigarette . . . easier on the throat.

Nano, wife of the Counselor of the Roumanian Legation. As chatelaine of the Brazilian Embassy Senhora e Silva will slip easily into the circle in which M. Nano and Mme. Nano are popular. During two periods of service in Washington the Nanos have enjoyed the spotlight of an interesting group here.

Another sister of Mme. Nano, the Baroness d'Erlanger, visited Washington several years ago, proving as attractive as her sister.

The Ambassador-designate is said to be a man of many accomplishments, who will maintain the cultural atmosphere established at the embassy by the retiring ambassador. The popularity of Senhor Amaral dates back a score of years when he served in Washington as secretary of the Brazilian Embassy and, with Senhora do Amaral, made the embassy a mecca of social activities.

Community Plays Scheduled Tonight

Four One-Act Bills Written by Persons Known Here to Be Presented.

Two of the four one-act plays to be given tonight at the East Washington Community Center in Eastern High School, in the third round of the preliminary contest of the fifth annual District one-act play tournament, are by authors well known in the National Capital. Ednah Clarke Hayes wrote "The House Cat," which is to be presented by the Arts Club. Ruth Welty, a resident here for the past several years, is author of "A Hint of Hyacinths," which is to be presented by the Southeast Community Players.

The two other plays to be offered tonight are "The Wonder Hat," by Ben Hecht and Kenneth Sawyer, the choice of the Comus Club, and "So's Your Old Antinque," the Klaire Kummer piece, the selection of the Columbia Players.

The preliminary contest will be concluded Friday night with the presentation of four more plays at Wilson Teachers College. The final contest will be held March 4 at McKinley High School. The best comedies and dramas selected from the preliminary series will be offered at this time.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was the guest in whose honor the National Woman's Country Club entertained at luncheon yesterday at its clubhouse in nearby Maryland. WORK ON BRIDGE

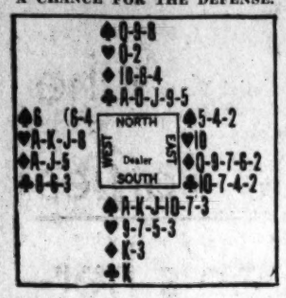
A CHANCE FOR THE DEFENSE.



With the above hand the Auction Bridge bidding would be: South one Spade, West two Hearts, North two Spades, East and South pass, West three Hearts, and either North or South three Spades.

The Contract Bridge bidding would be: South two Spades, West three Hearts, North four Spades.

When the hand was played West started with the King of Hearts and, as East's Ten looked like the commencement of a signal, West continued with the Ace of Hearts and East discarded the Diamond Deuce, thinking it wise to keep his four Clubs as a defensive measure. West, appreciating that he held the Diamonds over South and hoping that East would be able to stop the Clubs and lead a Diamond, thought his safest lead to trick 3 was a trump.

Declarer won and led another round of trumps; then, the adverse trumps not breaking evenly, South's King of Clubs took trick 5; and with a trump led to trick 6, dummy's trump Queen drew East's last trump. Declarer discarded South's four losing cards (two Diamonds and two Hearts) on dummy's Clubs and made five-odd.

If West had led the Ace of Diamonds at trick 3 he would have saved one trick but not game.

East missed an opportunity to be the hero of a "trump-your-partner's-Ace" episode. Seeing what was liable to happen to the Club suit, and appreciating that West—to bid Hearts as he had—probably had some side strength, East should have ruffed West's second Heart lead (although it was the Ace and a sure winner); and then have lead a Diamond up to dummy's weakness. That play would have saved game.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A graceful black tulle dinner dress embroidered in white, blue and green, with a jewelled buckle matching the embroidery. (Courtesy of Martial et Armand, Paris.)

Paris, Feb. 16.

I'VE been whispering to you for a long time about fur jacquettes, and by now their sucess is no secret to you. So I feel towards the fur jacquettes something akin to the feeling one has for an errant child or sweetheart who makes good after all, if you see what I mean.

Because I tell you frankly that I was very reluctant to accept the revival of the fur jacquette when it was tentatively offered sometime last Spring. I wonder if you didn't feel just the slightest reluctance towards it yourself? On thinking it over I have decided that my at least apathetic attitude towards it was based on memories of top-heavy and anything but elegant silhouettes with fur jacquettes as the "piece de resistance," of four or five years ago.

I think the present popularity of the fur jacquette can be attributed quite as much to the factor of silhouette as to the fact of their newness, and youthfulness. Also the fact that the new jacquettes of themselves are far more nicely made, tailored and fitted to the figure than the old jacquettes that were so cumbersome and bulky and had all the appearance of starting out to be an expensive fur coat and giving up the idea just below the waistline.

How would you like to make yourself a half a dozen new boudoir slippers, for oh, just a handful of dollars, not even one handful? And have 'em match all your negligees, pajamas, kimonos? Well, the way is to just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and get this week's illustrated leaflet telling you how to do it! And, sh-h-h-h-h, they will be just like those I am bringing back from Paris with me.

Black heavy tulle gowns come and go and come again in the collections of the Haute Couture. For there is that moment in the life of every well behaved little lady that requires a black tulle evening dress, and nothing more or less. That's why I have sketched one for you every now and then, like this black tulle one from Martial et Armand. And this one had a white, blue and green hand embroidered design on it, and a jewelled buckle right in the front of these three colors, too!

Remember that smart new material called "Flamenga" which came out last year? It's a material made of artificial silk and real wool, which looks like a lovely light weight woolen material with the slightest sheen to it when the woolen and silk threads are woven right together. Well, it is more popular than ever for spring and summer ensembles, tailleurs, one-piece dresses for morning, and coats. Ask to see some "Flamenga" the next time you are passing the department store. Just for your own information, if nothing else, because it is a new material and you are, I predict as familiar with it as you are with "Kasha" or crepe satin.

When a scarf has godets, and two chrysanthemums they're supposed to pose right at the back of the neck and when it is shirred right in between these two chrysanthemums, then it becomes a work of art and something only to be worn with the most simple gown. And then there is only the certain type of woman who can wear it also...but at just the right time and on the right person, it could be a charming gesture.

YOUR NAME IT MEAN? WHAT DOES

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

The family name "Carr" is found with great frequency in early English documents. It has always been especially common in Lancanshire and Yorkshire. It is the modern form of the Middle English and Scottish "car" and "ker," but its ultimate source is the Old Norse "kiarr." It means "the marsh," and indicates the place of residence of the persons who were first so called. However, "Carr" may also be traced back to several Celtic sources. When it is derived from the Gaelic "cathair' (the Welsh "caer") it means "the fortress," and indicates an original place of residence. Sometimes its source is the Irish "O Carra," meaning "the descendant of Carra." "Carra" was an old personal name meaning "the spear." This Irish name is especially common in Ulster. Another Irish source is the adjective "ciar," meaning "black." When "Carr" can be traced back to this source it indicates that the persons who were first so called were conspicuous because of their dark hair or their dark complexions. An English document of the year 1379 bears the names of Thomas Carr, Willemus att Karr and Johannes del Karr.

The family name "Mossman" is especially common in Yorkshire. It is equivalent to "the servant of Moss," and may therefore be translated "the servant of the man who lives near the marsh" or "the servant of the man saved from the water." "Mossman" does not seem to occur in early English records. A Canterbury church register of the year 1687 records the marriage of James Mosman and Rebecca Hampton. The common German equivalents of this name are "Mossmann" and "Moosmann."

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 3 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:45 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:15 p. m.

Nothing very startling will happen on February 17, although the astrological signs denote a sense of security and a spirit of optimism. New ideas can be exploited, and reforms can safely be initiated. After sunset, the indications point to a conflict between emotion and judgment.

Children born on this February 17 will charm, and try to get their own way, by winsomeness and protestations of affection. If they succeed in doing so in infancy, this engendered spirit will continue through life, and they will always expect much from the world, without giving a "quid pro quo."

If your birthday falls on a February 17, you are, whether man or woman, gifted with a keen insight into the motives that animate the actions of others, and one and all find it quite difficult to "put one over on you." If your sympathies were as much under control as your innermost judgment, success, with all its glories and trappings, could not fail to reach you. You are, however, very human, and your heart tramples down all obstacles of discretion and yields to impulse. You are generous to a fault. You close your eyes to evil, and always give the subject of your consideration the benefit of the doubt, although your keen mind often tells you there is no doubt.

You are both a reader and a thinker. Your reading is heavy. Your thinking is deep and clear. In any gathering, your personality magnetizes those around you, and you would be a born leader, if your human sympathies did not play so much havoc with your intellect. You are a worker, and no matter whether your sphere be a humble, or a proud one, you always leave the stamp of character on any task you execute. Your convictions are strong. Your executive ability—and as an executive, you never spare yourself—are very marked. You are fated for great success. Only your quixotic emotions may, while affording happiness, defeat the purposes of destiny.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

Romance and Reality

WHEN the young complain of the restraining hands of sombre middle age attempting to wreck romance it is natural that our sympathies go instinctly out to them. After all, who has not, alas, felt that uncompromising hand of authority extended in well-meant effort to prevent some youthful error? Tugged back from the very doors of endless ecstasy. Blasting memory. And so we weep with the young and decry the voice of counsel. What if they are young and what if the boy has no money? Why should they be denied their day? Why indeed? Mrs. L. D. G. tells us all about the why. we publish her statement for the benefit of those who believe that youth should have its day, regardless. Even youth sometimes finds reality mixed with romance and resents the discovery.

Dear Frances McDonald:

There is so much silly talk about separating young lovers for material reasons I feel I must relate two instances in my own family. In the first place my husband and I had nothing to speak of when we married but we were not resourceless. We stood on our own feet but had parents and homes to fall back upon if things had gone wrong. But we succeeded and when our girls grew up we felt hesitant to interfere when they both seemed to favor young boys without prospects.

The first married at 18—refusing even to wait one year. The man had to contribute to the support of a widowed mother who resented—and I think rightly—his early marriage. Meanwhile we had so much serious illness that we found our resources reduced to nothing. I begged my second girl at least to wait till her lover had established himself. She answered that her sister was not interfered with.

The older girl had two babies within the first two years. But her husband's income did not increase. His mother became ill. He could no longer keep up his home. As there was a large family at his home and no room for them there, we had to take them and their babies into our home where I had, until then, two tenants who helped greatly with our growing expenses. The tenants moved out and our daughter moved in. They paid rent just two months. Then it was one excuse or another. Finally they made no effort to conceal the fact that their misfortunes had proved too much for their romance They fought endlessly.

Was the younger girl warned by what she saw? Not at all. She was making $30 a week and I did everything in my power to induce her to see that she was well off. Christmas a year ago she went off and married her sweetheart whose family were in just about the same straits as the other boy's folks. Hand-to-mouth existence. Now I have her back home too. Only I would not take the husband. She has a two month-old baby. And until they can afford a home there will be no more. I laid down the law. Now it seems to me there should be an end to all this nonsense about poor but proud young men who are the salt of the earth. I am for a new code which will make it a disgrace for a youth to think of marrage before he is able to finance offspring and a home. What business have they bringing babies into the world when they cannot buy food for themselves six months ahead? A man should be compelled to have enough to live on for a year before he marries any girl. Babies cannot be drowned like pups although the way they are given away and handed around one would think they were little more than animals. My daughter is looking for a position and will probably never return to her husband at all.

Was it kindness or unkindness to let my girls have their way and walk into certain misery? If they are blaming me for their fix who can be surprised? There are two sides to this dizzy romance question.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

IN the spring, at a new home in the country which I have just bought I want to plant at least six shrubs to attract the birds. Can you give me a list of six hardy varieties? WILLIAM G. T.

Spice bush, Siberian red osier, panicled dogwood, Japanese winterbury, buckthorn and Siebold's viburnum will all furnish both food and shelter for the birds which stay with you in winter.

Please tell of a few suitable ground cover plants for carpeting about three bare places in my lawn. I have a large place which in spots, due to trees, is quite hard and bare.

MRS. JANET T. Y.

For carpeting bare patches of soil in shady places there are three plants which when established will form a perfect covering of green. First, there is the English ivy, which is practically evergreen, therefore unusually desirable in winter. Then the Japanese spurge (pachsandra), a low-growing plant which becomes more and more beautiful as the years go by, and last, the periwinkle, which bears a rather small flower. Any of the three are reliable, and all are perfectly hardy.

Please tell me the secret of growing evergreen rhododendrons. I mean the large-flowered ones. I have tried five times and each time the plants have died. MARIS T. Q.

Let me quote, in reply to your question, from one of the most successful authorities in the country: "The most important element of success with rhododendrons is to protect them against the cutting winds of winter by thick borders of other evergreens and deciduous shrubs and to keep their roots moist in summer by a heavy mulch of leaves."

Please tell my why the leaves are beginning to fall from a begonia plant which has been in my possession only three weeks. ALICE T. P.

Too much or too little water, too little fresh air or too much or too little sun will cause a begonia to drop its leaves. As a rule, a begonia does best in an east window where it will get the morning sun and where there is plenty of fresh air. In a warm room it should be watered only every other day.

Will Japanese holly or Japanese evergreen azalea be suitable for growing as a low hedge? I have just read an article about these shrubs.

Yes. MRS. JAMES H. K.

Please tell me how to care for a primrose plant in an apartment. I also have a sweet potato plant growing in water. This vine does not do so well as I expected; can you suggest any method of treatment to cause an improvement?

MRS. JOHN D.

Keep your primrose near a sunny window where it will receive plenty of fresh air. Keep the surface soil in the pot quite loose. Water the plant every day. Go over it once a day and remove all dead or wilting flowers or leaves. Keep your sweet potato vine in a warm, sunny, well-ventilated place. As a rule, this vine is very decorative and almost always does well.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Fears and Insecurity.

Mothers are often puzzled by the development of fears in their children which they can trace to no single frightening experience nor even to direct suggestion through the conversation of adults or other children.

The child develops a general apprehensiveness in relation to a number of situations such as being left alone, trying new stunts on playground apparatus and all sorts of other common situations which the ordinary child must encounter in its daily life.

Such general timidity is often caused by a profound feeling of insecurity. A child whose parents quarreled frequently in his presence cried when either of them went out of the house because he said "They might not come back any more!"

This child was also afraid of going to other people's houses and showed every sign of fear if for a moment his mother went out of his sight.

Another child who was [illegible]ly criticised and ridiculed by his parents and the older children had a great fear of strangers. He was afraid even to speak to his teachers at school and at recess stood in a lonely corner of the yard instead of playing normally with the other children.

Undoubtedly his treatment at home had made him afraid that he would encounter the same sort of thing elsewhere.

Children may become timid through being unsure of their parents' love for them, unsure of the stability of their home, through fear that they can not come up to their parents' expectations of them, through fear of criticism, ridicule and punishment.

Emphasis on their failures makes them afraid to make new attempts to learn and to do things which they are quite capable of accomplishing with success.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER XLV.

Gen. Wood began his investigations of Philippine conditions with inquiries regarding the administration of justice. Did the judicial branch of the government, he asked the members of the Supreme Court, give reasonable security to life, liberty and property? The judges—a number of them Filipinos—answered categorically that it did not. Had the Department of Justice come under the control of the political element to such an extent, Wood asked, as to render justice insecure when political influences and interests were involved? Most emphatically it had, the judges replied. Were pardons for sale, not necessarily for money but through political influence? The answer was a sweeping affirmative. One of the leading judges, a Filipino, said that, if independence were granted, he would instantly take himself and his family to Spain.

Graft Held Appalling.

"Their whole tone was very pessimistic," Wood wrote in his diary. "Yet they are the most respected and trusted of the members of the court, past and present."

Not only had the efficiency of the judicial system been impaired but the whole moral tone in the courts had been lowered. Rape, adultery, seduction, unlawful marriage, had been left practically unpunished during the latter years of the regime of Francis Burke Harrison, the former Governor General. Even in cases in which a man was convicted, sentenced and imprisoned for some sex crime, immediate pardon almost invariably followed, for the men in power appeared especially to resent arrest for violation of laws against improper practices.

Every one appeared to agree that the graft in the government was appalling. The most luxuriant device appeared to be a so-called independence fund of 1,000,000 pesos ($500,000) appropriated annually for the purpose of advancing the cause of Philippine independence. Apart from the irony of using to this end revenue contributed largely by American business men in Manila and resting in the main on American prestige, the freedom of the fund from all safeguards whatsoever in disbursement or audit, threw a long shaft of light upon the civic responsibility of the public and the integrity of the leaders. By a special clause in the law the goose that laid the golden eggs was, as far as possible, endowed with immortality, by means of a perpetual appropriation not requiring annual assent.

The bank which the Legislature had established was practically insolvent. Owing, moreover, to the reduction of the currency reserve fund, the government was unable to purchase exchange, even to meet current expenses payable in the United States, and had had to ask other local banks not to present its circulating notes for redemption. Cash reserves of the bank were approximately 10 per cent of the amount required by law.

"The situation here is one of very great gravity," Wood wrote Bishop Brent. "The finances of the islands have been wrecked by gross incompetency and improper handling. In brief, the vital interests of 10,500,000 people are at stake, as well as the honor and reputation of our own country, at least in all which stands for character, leadership and efficiency."

Take Different Routes.

After a week in Manila the mission went north into Luzon, Forbes taking one route and Wood another. Everywhere Wood received a warm welcome, with arches, bouquets and eloquent speeches, unbounded hospitality and friendly faces crowding close. Everywhere were banners: "We Welcome With Enthusiasm Our Visitors." "We Will Never Forget What America Has Done for Us." "We Cry for Full Liberty and Independence." A holiday spirit pervaded the receptions.

"We are not here in a spirit of criticism," Wood said in a hundred towns, "but simply to make a fair, honest and absolutely fearless report on conditions as they exist today in the islands. * * * What you are doing, how you have been doing it, and what the conditions are. * * * It is not so easy, this road to government. It is a road on which many people have stumbled and fallen."

Wood was busy from morning till night, traveling from place to place by rail, by motor or horseback or by boat, thrusting his searching eye into a thousand corners of Philippine daily life and recording in the minutest detail in his diary everything he saw and heard. The officials appeared glad to assist the investigation and kept nothing back.

Public order was excellent. The constabulary was well equipped and well disciplined. In a number of towns were flourishing women's clubs, which, among Malays, seemed odd and encouraging. Wood, indeed, was struck again and again by the thrift, stability and public spirit of the Filipino women.

No Interest in Hygiene.

Sanitation, it was clear, remained a hazy conception in the minds of the public officials.

"It is a remarkable thing," Wood wrote, "that while there have been some general complaints on some features of government, there has been nowhere the slightest interest shown in the death rate or the securing of medicines or the building up of a better system for the care of the people; no single request for a hospital, no single request for facilities for handling the insane. * * *

"On only very few occasions has there been any reference to the betterment of agriculture, and nowhere even along the seacoast, any reference to the development of the fisheries, although the waters are swarming with fish. It is a singular situation. The mind of the people has been stirred up by long agitation on the one subject of independence."

Peasants Found Exploited.

Here and there Wood came upon instances of the oppression of the cacique, the local political boss; of slavery, and of a lifetime of bitter service in payment of a negligible debt. The ways of oppressing the tao, the peasant of the Philippines, seemed to be endless. He was encouraged to take up land declared to be public, and robbed of it by the outraged owner as soon as the crops were riped for harvesting. Money was forced upon him before elections in the guise of gifts, and crops were seized after elections under foreclosure proceedings on loans.

"No one," he noted, "has shown the slightest interest in safeguarding liberty. * * * There is a general lack of civic courage * * * the willingness to come out and speak frankly before a crowd on subjects which may not meet with popular approval."

He labored to pierce "the veil which separates us from the great mass of plain people," and pleaded with them for courage and candor.

"We want, above all, for you to give us your frank and honest, unafraid opinions of affairs as they are. One of the characteristics of a race capable of self-government is the willingness to speak frankly, regardless of the feelings of friends or enemies, on occasions of great national importance. * * * Until you speak frankly and bravely in the face of your superiors you are not able to run a stable government. * * * They are humans, after all, who wear pants and eat food; plain, every day human beings. They are not to be afraid of."

Political Opposition Fatal.

Ah, but perhaps his hearers knew better than he. A report reached the mission that a Filipino had been pursued with a pistol by a justice of the peace because he had told the mission that he did not regard the people as ready for independence. Constabulary officers, moreover, who had told the American investigators of certain crimes and irregularities, had been subjected to charges and lawsuits.

At a meeting in one of the southern Islands, Wood, noting certain transparencies bearing sentiments averse to the ruling policies, inquired of a magistrate regarding the spirit of tolerance toward political opposition.

"He said that if the Americans were not here that, no doubt, whoever had presented himself at the meeting with (an opposition) transparency would have been floating dead in the bay before this."

Wood held public sessions in every town and village at which he stopped, giving private hearings to those who had complaints to make which were for his ear only. The demand for independence he found to be almost universal; but it was independence under American protection. How earnest it really was, Wood could not determine. A Catholic church and a Methodist missionary told Wood that they heard little of independence except from the politicians.

"There has been a very general propaganda on the subject of independence, and to the common people it has been held out as something which will bring lower taxes, higher wages and less work. There is little understanding of its responsibilities or the increased financial burden which it will bring with it."

A chieftain of one of the hill tribes who came to Wood to ask for independence thought it was something which a man could eat.

Mindanao Stirs Old Memories.

"There seems to be no real spontaneity in this movement, but rather as though the people are doing in a perfunctory way what they think ought to be done, as a matter of racial pride," Wood wrote. "They want their own government, but in their hearts many of them feel that they are not yet ready for it."

Early in August Wood reached Mindanao. The return to this wild, green island, where he had ruled supreme and had been happy to a degree he had not known before that time or since, stirred him to the depths. Every village and bay, every rutted road and friendly valley brought images of other days which made him, he admitted, "homesick and heartsick." With wistful tenderness, in his diary, he noted the familiar scenes, familiar faces. "That was life," he seemed to say, "and I was young, who now am old."

Everything was the same; yet everything was changed. "Jolo is still the same seething kingdom, full of intrigue, plot and counter plot," Wood wrote in his diary, but the capital had an energetic women's club; the children were going to school, and a stern niece was keeping the sultan virtuous.

"The governor's office, which we used to run with seven or eight men, now has in the neighborhood of a hundred. It is a straight-out, unabashed administrative graft. This is apparently the dumping ground for friends of those in power. The personnel could easily be reduced 50 per cent and efficiency increased."

In the Cotobato Valley Wood could scarcely believe his eyes, seeing the changes wrought in what had been Datto Ali's wild domain. Near the blockhouse at Kudarangan, "where we spent many a mosquito-ridden night," was an agricultural school, with something resembling a lawn in front.

Finds Former Foes Prosperous.

"It is simply impossible to realize that this is the place where we used to camp and where Bombay and the old sheriff used to come with information at night."

One after the other, dattos whom Wood had fought or pursued greeted him, prosperous and at peace.

The Moros greeted Wood as though he were their father returned to them after long wanderings. They did not share the ardor of the Filipinos for independence, knowing well enough that the independence which the Filipinos were seeking meant for the Moros not freedom at all, but a form of dominance incomparably more bitter than that of the Americans. The Moros respected the Americans because they were strong and they were just; but the Filipinos represented only a borrowed power and their justice was less conspicuous than their devotion to politics.

They had been indifferent to the Moros' needs, supercilious and brutal; showing no desire to share with them the authority; they, the Filipinos, themselves so ardently claimed of the Americans. "What is the use of trying to educate our children," the dattos asked Wood, "if they are not to have any part in the government?"

Wood found the Moros hesitant in speaking their minds, aware clearly of possible consequences at the hands of a constabulary which had been known to punish nonconformists with sweeping finality, but when, at a meeting on the shores of Lake Lanao, he asked a roomful of his refractory Moslems whether they wished the Americans to remain in the Philippines he had his answer.

Moros Hail American Rule.

"Pandemonium broke loose. Old hadjis threw up their turbans and came dancing down the long room to the front like madmen. There was a perfectly deafening roar," he wrote.

"This is the first real, intense demonstration of feeling which we have had in any meeting in the islands. That it came from the heart there was no questioning."

Early in September, after four months of investigation in 48 provinces and over 450 towns and villages, Wood and Forbes completed their labors. Their report was temperate and friendly. The Philippine people, they wrote, were happy, peaceful and in the main prosperous. A "reasonable proportion" of officials and employes were men of good character and ability, "reasonably faithful to the trust imposed upon them, and many were showing marked capacity for government service. The legislative chambers were composed of representative men and were conducted with dignity and decorum. But the public service had fallen off in efficiency. There was a "disquieting lack of confidence" in the administration of justice; the finances were in chaos.

They recommend that no change be made in the general status of the islands "until the people had had time to absorb and thoroughly master the powers already in their hands."

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Typewriter sketch of a perennial juvenile:

Neil Hamilton is the only actor I know who wants to go on acting as long as the public will accept him. Or as long as he can get paid for it. Most players hope to acquire a million dollars, quit the business and retire to a villa in southern France.

NEIL HAMILTON

He hopes he'll never have a million because he'd have to worry about investing it, and he hates worrying.

He hopes, when he becomes too old to be a juvenile saving young ladies from villains, to have the satisfaction of playing characters—perhaps fathers—of the same young ladies. He wants to be an actor because he gets more kick out of it than anything else.

If he weren't an actor, he thinks he might be a prize fighter or a forester. He hasn't had a fist fight since he was 11 years old. His exercise is wrestling and hiking. He gets up nearly every morning at 6:30 to exercise with his trainer, a former wrestler.

When he can, he spends week-ends hiking, often making as many as 25 miles a day in the mountains. He owns a yacht, a beach house and a hillside town house.

Trick Artist.

His favorite dishes are Boston baked beans and chicken soup. He doesn't read as much as he thinks he should because he says he gets mentally lazy.

His first name is James. He dislikes responsibility and his wife is his business manager. He is the town's foremost sleight-of-hand performer.

At the age of 10 he decided to become an actor and never lost sight of his ambition. His father wanted him to be a priest, but he left school for the stage.

Youngster.

He was 31 years old last September 9. He is an only son, his mother is dead and his father lives with him.

After three years as an extra in Eastern studios, he was on the stage for two years. In 1922 D. W. Griffith selected him for a role in "The White Rose." Since then, with the exception of a few months last year, he has been continuously under contract to some studio.

His appearance is almost as youthful now as it was ten years ago. It won't be surprising if he still is a juvenile in 1940. Recently he grew a mustache in an attempt to look older. It was not an outstanding success.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

BATHS FOR A SICK BABY.

(Children's Bureau, Department of Labor.)

A sponge bath should be given daily instead of his usual tub bath. If the baby has a high fever (over 104 degrees F.), a sponge bath with water at about 90 degrees F. may be given once or twice a day or oftener. Every precaution should be taken in bathing a sick baby not to chill him. If the fever is high, a cold compress or ice cap may be kept on his head while he is being bathed or given a warm wet pack. If his hands and feet are cold, well-wrapped hot-water bottles may be used.

To give a warm wet pack, cover the bed with a large rubber sheet or piece of oilcloth and wrap the baby in a blanket wrung out in warm water, not over 105 degrees F. If a bath thermometer is not at hand, test the water by your bare elbow to be certain that it is not hot enough to burn the baby. Take plenty of time to test the water carefully, wring the blanket out as dry as possible, wrap it quickly about the baby and then wrap him in another blanket, which is dry. Place an ice cap or cool wet cloth on the baby's head. Allow him to remain in the warm pack 15 to 30 minutes. Then dry him well, put on his nightgown and wrap him in a dry blanket. If his fever is high do not wrap him too warmly.

BILL AGAINST FALSE RUMORS SUPPORTED

1930 LIFE POLICIES GAIN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

While it became known yesterday that representatives of the District of Columbia Bankers Association are cooperating with a House committee relative to the passage of the Brand bill punishing circulators of false rumors detrimental to financial institutions, it was also learned that numerous bankers think the pending legislation should be stronger in its wording.

The sole criticism of the legislation is that it reaches only those maliciously making false statements which might cause runs on banks, whereas several instances were recalled where serious consequences followed false statements made not maliciously, but either carelessly or ignorantly.

Prominent local bankers were surprised to learn that here there is no existing legislation punishing the utterance of false reports about the condition of banking institutions and approval was voiced regarding the general idea of the measure. Thirty-seven States and Alaska now have such laws on their statute books and past experience has shown the necessity for a similar one in the District of Columbia.

Speaking to members of the Bond Club of Washington at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Carlton Hotel, Wilfrid H. Hemingway, financial analyst and author, of Hemingway & Associates, New York City, gave reasons why in view of present conditions sound analyses of financial statements were never more necessary than now.

Dealing in detail with regard to analyses of general financial statements, he said that any analysis should be on comparative basis with two or three fiscal periods included.

The meeting of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association at Hay-Adams House Thursday afternoon, beginning at 12:30 o'clock, will be addressed by A. E. N. Gray, assistant secretary of the Prudential Life. His subject is "Peeling Oranges," a very forceful insurance talk.

Life insurance had a very prosperous year in 1930, according to the annual report of the New York Life Insurance Co., just published. The company's total volume of new paid for insurance was more than $900,000,000. The total number of new policies was 323,745.

In a year when so many lines of business suffered material losses, New York Life issued only 385 fewer policies than in 1929. This was only a little more than one-tenth of 1 per cent less than in 1929. The volume of insurance, $900,897,700 was off only about 5½ per cent.

Dividends to policyholders apportioned for 1931 amount to $72,541,788. The amount of dividends paid in 1930 was $70,437,465.

The Fidelity Investment Association, which is devoted to the sale of annuities, reports contracts written for January of $4,724,000, compared with $3,808,000 in January, 1930, a gain of $916,000 or 24 per cent. These figures also represent an increase of $788,000 over December. Resources of the association increased from $25,047,124 as of January 1, 1931, to $25,393,707 as of February 1, a gain of $346,582.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—New life insurance production for all classes for January showed a decline of 10.7 per cent from figures for the like month of 1930, the report of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents to the United States Department of Commerce shows. The only class showing a gain was group insurance, which increased 21.8 per cent over the amount for January last year. Total new paid-for business, exclusive of revivals, increases and dividend additions, amounted to $888,335,000 last month, against $995,195,000 for January last year. The report aggregates the figures of 44 member companies having in force 82 per cent of the total insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies.

Receipt of an order in excess of $500,000 from the Navy Department for the main propelling machinery and engine room auxiliaries for a new 10,000-ton treaty cruiser was announced by Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. The new ship, designated as No. 38, will be built at the Mare Island Navy Yard, Calif.

The Curb Market returned today to its former policy of giving the figures on stock sales to the last share, but the Stock Exchance continued to report total transactions in round numbers to confound the policy gamblers who resorted to the use of these numerals as a substitute for clearing house balances. Some of the gamblers turned to Treasury Department figures with disastrous results, and now are understood to be using the total mutuels paid at the Miami race track.

The value of New York Stock Exchange memberships advanced $20,000 today.

Arrangements were made for the sale of a seat at $295,500, compared with $275,000 on the previous sale.

Lothair Teetor, vice president of the Perfect Circle Co., said January business showed a decided increase, total sales having increased 10 per cent, while replacement sales through automotive equipment jobbers gained 52 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

Millard F. Cheek, president of Municipal Telephone & Utilities Co., said none of the company's subsidiaries showed a loss in 1930. Despite the severity of the drought in Arkansas and Kentucky, two of the States it serves, the company showed net income before depreciation, interest and Federal taxes for the last half of 1930 amounting to $209,370, he said. The report for the full year is not yet available.

Dow, Jones & Co. says slightly improving conditions are noted in steel in the Southern territory and operations in Alabama now are estimated at 60 per cent of capacity. Fabricating shops have good orders to be filled during the next 90 days.

United Carbon Co. and subsidiaries for the year ended December 31 had net profit of $704,600, equal to $1.43 a share on 397,885 common shares, including 36,300 shares held in the Treasury. This compared with net profit of $1,314,555, equal to $2.62 a share on 393,073 shares of common outstanding December 31, 1929. Net for last year included $338,906 profit from the sale of properties, against a similar profit of $344,429 in the preceding year.

Responding to Washington's Cry for bread at lower prices, uttered by the U.S. Senate Committee on Food Prices

From the "U. S. Daily" Report on the Senate Committee's Investigation of Food Prices

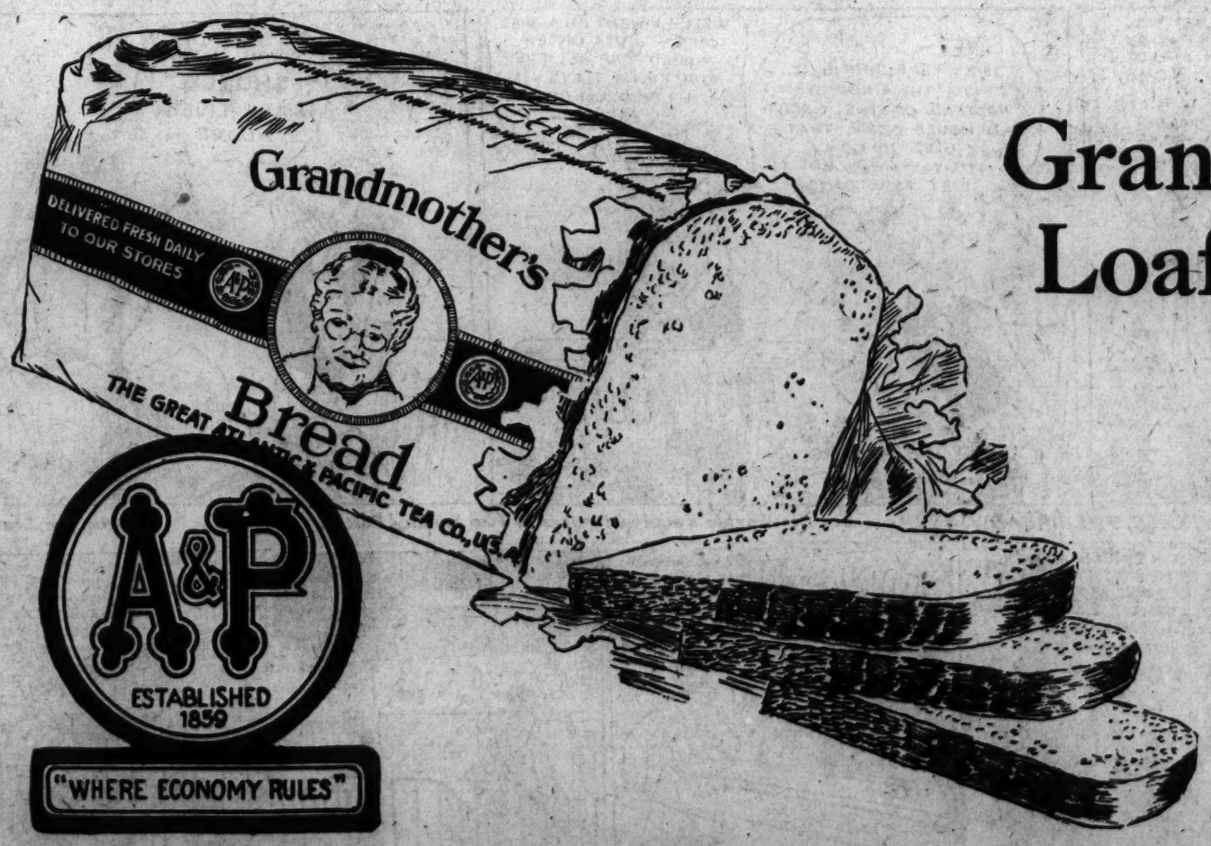
Frank W. Wheeler, assistant to the president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, testified that his company is making a pound loaf of bread, and selling it at a profit for an average of 5.52 cents. The company's bread is of the highest quality, he said.

Asked by Senator Capper (Rep.), of Kansas, chairman of the subcommittee, if he did not think prices in Washington, D. C., were too high, Mr. Wheeler said there may be cost factors in Washington which necessitate higher prices. His company has no Washington bakery, he said.

Senator Capper suggested that his company might make bread more cheaply in Washington than present bakeries. Mr. Wheeler said his company is expanding its bakery system and he will submit the suggestion for a Washington plant to his office.

5 cent Bread of highest quality for Washington

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. begins today the sale of its own freshly baked, carefully wrapped



Grandmother's 16-ounce Loaf at a nickel apiece

To meet the situation described by Senator Capper, A&P is sending its own bread to Washington from its own bakeries in nearby cities—delivered a few hours after it comes from the ovens.

A conflict in Russian political affairs is thought to be in a critical state, and it is rumored that the czar's cabinet is preparing to resign.

Alice Roosevelt became Mrs. Nicholas Longworth after a brilliant wedding ceremony at the White House, attended by socially and politically prominent persons from all the world and all walks of life. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, Episcopal Bishop of Washington.

The presidential boom of Secretary of State Elihu Root was launched at a banquet of the Hamilton College alumni. A. R. Serven was the toastmaster.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GARY DENTAL TREATMENTS.

GARY, Ind., is experimenting with a method of dental care for children from kindergarten to grade 5-A. The theory of the service is that children should have preventive dentistry and they should pay for it, but the cost must be held within bounds.

The essential of the scheme is set forth in the following statement: "All pupils from kindergarten to 5-A, inclusive, pay $1 a year and are entitled to an examination by the school dentist and a prophylaxis by the hygienist. Those who send a signed request are entitled to further dental service."

In round numbers, the schools collect $11,000 from 11,000 pupils. This money is used to pay dentists and dental hygienists, clerks, and to purchase supplies. About $4,000 are paid for salaries of dentists, the hygienists get about $3,500, clerks about $1,200 and the remainder goes for supplies. Each pupil has his mouth examined, his teeth cleansed and polished, gumboils treated, teeth extracted and advice as to what teeth should be filled and what straightening should be done. The diagnosis card goes home and if the parent requests and the case is proper for the school dentist, the school dentist does what is advised.

This experiment has been in operation for several years and the public, the schools and the dentists approve of it. The dental society has a committee that oversees the work, to satisfy all parties that it is being properly done.

Stress is put on cleaning the teeth as a means of preventing decay, pyorrhea and other teeth troubles. Incidentally there is protection of the mouth other than care for the teeth against some disorders.

Also, considerable relief or curative work is done. Nine hundred and twenty-seven children had 1,373 teeth filled during the year 1930; 2,551 had 4,355 teeth pulled, and 82 gumboils were treated. Over 23,000 treatments for toothache were given. Of the group of about 11,000 children only 79 received treatment for one reason or another, and only 178 missed their dental appointments.

MAY INCREASE STRAIN.

Worried Friend writes: A young woman had one kidney removed because of stone. It is not quite a year since the operation and now she is pregnant. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

People with one good kidney generally get along very well. Pregnancy increases the strain, but one good kidney can carry the increase easily. The lady should be under medical supervision.

TOOTHPICK AND SNORING.

C. V. M. writes: I pick my teeth with a wooden toothpick thoroughly after each meal. Is there any harm to the gums in this practice?

2. Each morning when I get up my tongue is coated and my breath foul. My teeth are all right and I am not constipated.

3. I have several gold fillings. Might these cause a bad breath?

4. Could infected sinus be the cause?

5. My nose becomes very dry, causing me to want to pick it.

REPLY.

1. I don't think so.
2. I suspect you sleep with your mouth open and snore.
3. No.
4. No.
5. Maybe the air in your bedroom is so warm and dry. Do you ventilate your room? Ozena is possible.

NO one knows just how the Chicago White Sox will shape up when the 1931 American League season opens, as there have been rumors of trades in which Chicago might participate. Barring such trades, a tentative line-up would be: Radcliffe, from the Southeastern League, on first; Gregory Mulleavy, tried at short last season, at second; Luke Appleby, from Atlanta, at short, and Bill Cissell or Bill Kamm at third.

That will leave John Ryan, late of Holy Cross; Irving Jeffries, optioned to Toledo last year; Goff, a third baseman from the Piedmont League, and Willingham, a third baseman from Dallas, and Johnny Kerr, with the Sox for two seasons, to scrap for the utility berths.

Bush Has Makings of Good Outfield.

The trouble with the infield named above, however, is that, aside from Cissell and Kamm, there is not a seasoned player listed. Some 22 years ago Connie Mack went places with three kids in his infield, Collins, Barry and Baker, while a year or so later he added still another, McInnis, at first base. It might be wisdom to use Kerr on second. Johnny went great guns with the stick last year until injured, late in the season.

Donie Bush has the makings of a hard-hitting outfield. In fact, with Carl Reynolds, Smead Jolley and Johnny Watwood on hand, he should not have to worry much, although it is admitted that Jolley is not the best fly chaser in the business. The big fellow, however, can, does and will hit. Watwood also can be utilized at first base where he played for two months in 1930. Bush, however, prefers him in the garden.

New outfielders acquired by Chicago are Fred Eichrodt, of New Orleans, formerly of Cleveland; a fair right-hand hitter and fielder; Bob Pinlator, purchased from Selma, and Mel Simons, recently obtained from Louisville. As Bob Fothergill still is on the roster, it would be no surprise if Pinlator were sent out on option for a year as he has had less than two seasons of professional experience. Blackerby has been recalled from Birmingham.

Chisox Strong as Regards Batterymen.

The Sox have plenty of catchers. There is Benny Tate, installed as first stringer, last season; Frank Grube, purchased from Buffalo; Moe Berg, out of the game in 1930 because of an injured knee, and Walter Henline, veteran National Leaguer, purchased from Toledo.

Chicago is strong in pitchers, that is if Al Thomas, who had a lame arm the greater part of the 1930 campaign, shows the effectiveness he did at the close of the season. In addition to Thomas, there are Ted Lyons, Pat Caraway, Urban Faber, Garland

Chicago Virtually Assured Schmeling-Stribling Match

Carey "Reasonably Sure" of Site After Visit; Getz Likely to Promote Bout for Milk Fund on June 19.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A world heavyweight championship fight will be held in Soldier Field between Max Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling June 19 if the proposition continues to gain momentum at the pace it set today.

William F. Carey, president and general manager of Madison Square Garden, said today before leaving for New York that he was "reasonably certain" the fight will be held in Chicago. He added, however, that further conferences would be necessary before a definite decision could be reached.

Rumors Had Chicago Out of Picture.

Reports and rumors had declared Chicago out of the picture as a site for the battle, with Detroit, Cleveland and New Jersey as more likely prospects. However, Carey visited over the week-end at the home of Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Oil Co. and until recently president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, and was said to have conferred with George F. Getz, who acted as resident promoter for the late Tex Rickard in staging the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Soldier Field in September, 1927.

Carey declined to make a statement last night, but today with just about enough time to make his train more than hinted that the fight is on for Chicago.

The fight would be staged as a New York milk fund show by the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois, a subsidiary of the New York Garden organization, which promoted the second Dempsey-Tunney match. The latter spectacle drew the biggest "gate" in the history of the game, $2,658,660, and it is believed that the projected affair would do business commensurate with the times.

German Would Have Backers.

If Germans and persons of German descent are interested in seeing Herr Max defend his title against Stribling, there are plenty of them within easy reach. Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Louis all have big German representations in their respective populations.

Even if it is formally decided to present the bout in Soldier Field, difficulty may be encountered by the promoters. Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Park Board, which controls the huge lake front arena, has said that Soldier Field will not be available unless Chicago charities share in the profits.

BRITISH STAR TIES FOR MEDAL

Miss Fishwick, Mrs. Hanley Lead Palm Beach Golfers.

By RED SAFFER.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Miss Diana Fishwick started an invasion of the United States by British women golfers here today by scoring a 78 to tie for the medal in the Florida women's championship.

Mrs. Stuart Hanley, of Detroit, made a similar score and she and the English girl will head the first flight as match play begins tomorrow on the exclusive Palm Beach course in the first of three Florida tournaments that drew the British women to the American links.

Miss Van Wie Two Strokes Behind Leaders.

Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, who twice before has won the tournament, was two strokes behind the leaders with a 41—39—80. She was followed by Miss Helen Hicks, Hewlett, L. I., with an 81. Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, winner of two women's crowns in Miami during the last eight days, also had an 81.

Other members of the British team were scattered through the list. Miss Kathleen Garnham was nearest to Miss Fishwick, with an 87. Miss Marjorie White and Miss Betty Dix Perkin had 90's, while Miss Jessie Firth was one stroke behind them. Mrs. Bee Brindle scored a 95 and Misses Mona Dixon and Cecelia Wolesley fell far behind with 111 and 116 respectively.

G. W. and C. U. End Pact Amicably

New Sports Policy of Colonials Leads to Action.

G. W. Apology Accepted; C. U. Regrets Loss of Foe.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY and Catholic University yesterday agreed amicably to discontinue athletic relations, including their annual football game, while George Washington, in addition, took the longer and most unique step of dropping competition with all local colleges.

The matter was revealed officially by Arthur J. Bergman, director of athletics of Catholic University, who was apprised of the adoption of a new George Washington athletic policy in a letter from James E. Pixlee, head of the physical education department of the downtown institution.

The letter set forth that inasmuch as the new policy was to eliminate intercollegiate competition between George Washington and all other Capital colleges that the scheduling of a football game for 1931 between George Washington and Catholic was prevented.

Bergman Expresses Regret.

Bergman, in a written reply, expressed regret over George Washington's decision and added, on behalf of Catholic University officials, his acceptance of the apology made the day previous by Cloyd Heck Marvin, George Washington president, for the action of a member of the George Washington athletic committee who had prematurely announced the Colonials' position in the matter. In conclusion Bergman stated that the incident was considered closed by his institution.

In effect, Pixlee's message attributed the adoption of the policy to a belief of George Washington officials that the institutional relations of all local colleges could best be served by eliminating intercollegiate athletic competition. George Washington, it was further pointed out, can uphold the hands of all other local colleagues in their sport programs to a much greater degree than is possible under a policy including competition.

A detailed explanation of the George Washington policy will be forthcoming in a day or two, President Marvin said last night. The Colonial prexy also declared he had identified the committee member responsible for the premature announcement and had been offered an apology by that person, who name he did not make public.

C. U. Needs Grid Games.

The failure of negotiations for the G. W.-Catholic game leaves the schedule makers of Catholic U. in a somewhat difficult situation contributed to by the fact that grid schedules of most colleges for next fall already have been completed.

Besides the G. W. date, which was to have been either November 21 or 26, there are three unfilled places on the Cardinal schedule. Bergman said he will endeavor to schedule Providence (R. I.) College as the substitute for G. W., having previously opened negotiations with the Rhode Island institution for a game on either November 14 or 21.

The other open dates are October 17 and 24. Games already scheduled are as follows: Boston College, at Boston, September 26; City College of New York, at Brookland, October 3; Gallaudet, at Brookland, October 10; Duquesne, at Pittsburgh (Friday night), October 30, and Manhattan, at Brookland, November 7.

Harris Leaves Today For Coast Via Detroit

Eight pitchers and Catchers Wally Schang and John Grabowski started work last Sunday, reporting at Richardson Springs, Calif., for a course of baths before reporting at Sacremento.

LES NICHOLS is a naturally gifted throat whistler, and, with his lips sealed tightly, imitates bird calls with tones produced through his nose. Nichols, formerly a miner in the Lethbridge, Alberta, coal fields, in Canada, found that his fellow miners appreciated his whistling performances, so he decided to perform in a big way and make it pay.

The elder duck is a native of Iceland and builds its nest atop the roofs of the Icelanders' houses. Strange as it seems, this duck insists on having exactly eleven eggs in its nest before it sits, and if eggs are taken from the nest will continue to lay 50 or 60 eggs before it stops. Natives of Iceland appreciate the value of the eggs as a food and take the eggs to eat. The duck lays an egg a day during the months of May and June. At the end of that time the Icelander stops pilfering the eggs and allows eleven to be in the nest. Then the duck sets and raises a brood of young eiders.

Atlanta Owner Plans New Baseball League

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The Constitution says R. P. Spiller, one of the owners of the Atlanta Baseball Club, today invited representatives of seven cities to confer with him on the possibility of forming a new circuit.

Invitations have been sent to Macon, Columbus and Albany in Georgia, Selma and Montgomery in Alabama, and Jacksonville, Fla.

W. G. Bramham, president of the South Atlantic League, which has not been completed for the 1931 season, also was asked by Spiller if he would assist in organization of such a league and if he would consider the presidency of it should it materialize. Macon is now a member of the Sally League.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE thirteenth annual Masonic duckpin tournament will start tonight at Convention Hall, commencing at 6 o'clock sharp. Previously scheduled for last night, the inaugural was moved up one night so as to avoid confliction with the United States championships, which opened last night on the same drives.

Tonight's rolling will be confined to five-men teams, of which there are 40 entered. These teams will continue to roll each night until February 28, when the doubles combinations will take the alleys. The singles will start on March 2 and continue to March 6. One hundred doubles teams and 225 singles entrants will compete.

Last year the Lafayette outfit won the team championship with a 1,808 total; J. E. Ruppert and Karl Heinzman shot a 764 to win the doubles; Phil Needle carried off the singles with a 421; and Wesley Miltner captured the all-events crown with a 1,103.

Eddie Espey and Paulie Harrison in the doubles, and Maxie Rosenberg in the singles, will attempt to regain some of the prestige they lost in Baltimore last Thursday night when they take on George Lang and Eli Pickus, and Ed Blakeney, respectively, tonight at Northeast Temple in the concluding five-game blocks of their special ten-game home-and-home matches. The singles will start at 7:30 o'clock and the doubles at 9.

Espey and Harrison go into tonight's block 31 pins in the rear of Lang and Pickus, while Rosenberg trails Blakeney by 85 pins.

Dick Porter Signs Cleveland Contract

Cleveland, Feb. 16. (A.P.).—Dick Porter, outfielder of the Cleveland Indians, today signed his contract for the coming season, thereby reducing the number of holdouts on the team to four.

Midatlantic League Expands to 12 Clubs

Pittsburgh, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A dozen baseball clubs will battle for the Middle Atlantic League pennant this year.

The league was expanded to take in Charleston, Huntington and Beckley in southern West Virginia and Hagerstown, Md., at a meeting here last night. Other towns represented are Johnstown, Jeannette, Scottdale and Charlerol in Pennsylvania; Wheeling, Fairmont and Clarksburg in West Virginia and Cumberland, Md.

All the clubs are to have parks equipped for night baseball.

Als and Eagle Sextets In Benefit Game Tonight

Girl basket ball teams will battle for a good cause in the Wilson Normal gym tonight at 9 o'clock, when the Als A. C. sextet takes on the Eagles.

Proceeds will be turned over to Sidney Goad, youthful basketer who was injured recently.

Census Will Tackle Skinker Five Tonight

The Census Enumerators, the only quintet of the three runners-up, which has yet to meet the first-place Skinker Eagles in the Independent League, will take on the Eagles at the Silver Spring Armory tonight in what promises to be one of the feature league clashes of the season. Action will start at 9 o'clock, with the Saks Clothiers and Petworth Mets meeting in a preliminary one hour earlier.

The Skinkers, with five straight triumphs so far in the league, already have walloped the Stewart Photographers and the French Five, coholders of second place with the Enumerators. A win for the Eagles tonight will bring them still farther toward their goal, a second straight Independent League pennant.

The Saks-Petworth clash also should bring out some spirited basket ball, as both of these quintets are considered to be among the best in this vicinity.

Time Second Off World Record

Illinois A. C. Star Is Third, Behind Gene Venzke.

Chapman Victor in 880; Moore Cops 2-Mile Test.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Carl Coan, a stubby-legged little chap from the University of Pennsylvania, snapped Ray Conger's great winning streak of twelve straight victories in the Baxter mile, feature of the annual New York Athletic Club games tonight in the great time of 4 minutes 13 seconds.

The mighty Conger, undefeated at a mile since Lloyd Hahn led him to the tape in the mile of the Century in 1928, was staggering with weariness at the end and was nipped at the tape by Gene Venzke, smooth striding kid from the Swedish-American Athletic Club.

The time of 4:13 was only one second behind the world record of Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray, a mark deemed unapproachable again in a generation when it was made.

Coan was a fresh as a newly plucked daisy at the end of the grilling struggle, and was almost mobbed by friends and admirers as he trotted down the track after his victory.

Bullwinkle Sets Pace.

George Bullwinkle, local product from the College of the City of New York, intercollegiate mile champion, jumped out at the gun to set a blistering pace. Close on his heels came the field, with Venzke second, then Conger and Little Coan bringing up the rear. They held this position for five laps, when Conger moved up. Coan still lay behind, patiently awaiting his chance. On the eighth lap Conger jumped out in front, followed a few seconds later by Venzke and Coan, Bullwinkle dropping behind.

Came the bell lap. Down the straight away Coan and Conger rushed, shoulder to shoulder. Making the turn, Ray went out in front for a moment, but he was staggering all over the track, and Coan stepped inside him and led him around the turn and on to victory.

Almost out on his feet, Conger staggered on, but he could not catch the flying red and black shirt in front and, as he almost stopped at the tape, Venzke came charging past in a great last-minute sprint.

A friend put his arm around the Illinois A. C. star's shoulders as the crowd cheered his conqueror.

Chapman Defeats Martin.

Russell Chapman, the great half-miler from Little Bates College, in Maine, won the Brefney half mile from an international field. Sera Martin, of France, was second, about 10 yards back. The time of 1:52 4-5 was only a second behind the world record.

Lagging behind the fast pace set by Phil Edwards, of Canada, Chapman unleashed his sprint on the fourth lap to catch Martin and Edwards napping and take a lead of 10 yards. On the bell lap he increased this to 15; but Martin, fighting his way past the Canadian Negro, was steadily cutting this down as the Maine boy rounded into the stretch. However, he did not have enough kick to catch the flying Chapman.

It was the fastest half mile ever run on the Garden track, Lloyd Hahn's world record of 1:51 2-5 being made on the lightning-fast intercollegiate track at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory. The old Garden track is believed to be at least a second slower than the one where the record was made.

Martin, in losing, ran a great race, being clocked at 1:53 3-5, a fraction of a second faster than the time in which Chapman defeated him a week ago Saturday by 25 yards.

Dr. Martin Far Back.

Edwards in finishing third was timed in 1:54 1-5. Dr. Paul Martin, the failing surgeon of Switzerland, was fifth and last, almost a half lap behind Chapman.

Gus Moore, smooth striding negro star of the Brooklyn Harriers, won the 2-mile handicap in 9:11 3-5, the fastest 2-mile race in several years. Joseph McCluskey, 19-year-old Fordham University runner, was second, a step behind Moore. Both ran from scratch.

Moore set a burning pace, running the first mile in 4:27 3-5, with McCluskey far back in the pack. Five laps from the finish the Fordham youngster started to move up and the last lap was run shoulder to shoulder, with Moore showing the greater stamina, to win by a yard.

It was the best two miles run in the Garden since Joie Ray and Paavo Nurmi were burning up the indoor boards. The time was all the more remarkable in that both scratch men had to fight their way through a big handicap field.

EPPA RIXEY SIGNS.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Eppa Rixey, one of the National League ancients, insofar as major-league baseball service is judged, today signed a contract to pitch for the Cincinnati Reds this season.

It will mark the twentieth year that Rixey has pitched in the big leagues. Rixey went direct from the University of Virginia to the Philadelphia Nationals in 1912, and remained in the senior circuit ever since.

Cotton Barred by English From Ryder Cup Matches

LONDON, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—England's hopes of repeating her 1929 triumph over the United States in the Ryder Cup matches at Columbus, Ohio, June 26 and 27, were weakened today when the Professional Golf Association definitely barred Henry Cotton from competition.

The action against Cotton was the result of the player's demands that he be permitted to travel separate from the Ryder Cup Team and compete in matches in the United States. A rule of the Professional Golf Association requires that all members of the team travel in a body. In his original statement Cotton said he intended to compete in the United States open and such other tournaments as he desired, regardless of the schedule outlined for the English pro team.

Cotton widened the break by inviting Aubrey Boomer, Percy Arliss and J. C. Boyer, of France, to accompany him to the United States. Boomer was a member of the 1929 Ryder Cup Team while Bliss, although an Englishman, is not eligible for the team because of a long residence in Berlin. Boyer ranks out one of the outstanding French professionals.

As a member of the 1929 team, Cotton defeated Al Watrous, 4 and 3, and then teamed with Ernest Whitcombe in the foursome matches, losing to Walter Hagen and Johnny Golden, 2 up.

Penalty on Try for Point Only Change in Grid Code

NEW YORK, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The football rules, except in one relatively unimportant particular, will remain the same in 1931 as they were in 1930.

Reporting today on the result of the week-end sessions of the rules committee at its seashore retreat at Absecon, E. K. Hall, chairman, reported the committee in agreement to let the recodified code jell at least for another year.

The one change was to remove the arbitrary award of point after touchdown, making the penalty for an offside the same as if the foul had been committed during any other scrimmage. Under the new rule, if the defending team infringes the rules, it will be penalized half the distance to the goal line, or 1 yard, and the point tried over. If the attacking team is at fault, it will be penalized the usual 5 yards for offside play and again try the point from the 7-yard line.

The coaches themselves, the one group in the country qualified to give an expert opinion on the subject, recommended just such action as was taken.

The entire rules committee was present at the sessions, as well as Robert Zuppke and Jack Sutherland, the advisory members from the Coaches Association.

Baker, diminutive captain, and Seamon, sophomore center, baffled the Emory varsity in early stages of the varsity tilt to boost V. P. I. to a 19-5 lead after ten minutes of play.

aker and Hall Pull Game Out of Fire.

The Wasps came back strongly to trail the Gobbler second team 14-20 at the half. Bus Hall, scoring ace, led the Gobbler attack in a second-half thriller in which the visitors three times drew within one point of the home team. Baker and Hall scored in the final minutes to win the game. Cather, Emory captain, featured with long one-hand shots from court corners.

Quarentine Forces Clemson Teams to Idle

Clemson College, S. C., Feb. 16 (A. P.).—Discovery of a second case of meningitis in the Clemson College student body today resulted in an extension of the quarantine, and cancellation of athletic events set for the near future.

Contests canceled were: Basket ball games with Furman Wednesday, Wofford Thursday, and with Florida at Gainesville Saturday, and a boxing match with the North Georgia Aggies Friday.

Glazier and Schwartz On "He-Night" Card

The mat fans of Rockville and its environs are looking forward to the Joe Glazier-Baker Boy Billy Schwartz fight next Saturday night on Rockville's he-night card of scraps with keen enthusiasm. Glazier is just about as tough as they make them in this region, according to word from Rockville, and holds decisions over Joe Finazo and Billy Strickler. A clever, two-fisted battler, he has garnered much more ring experience than his opponent has accumulated in his brief year and a half in the ring.

Max Baer is authority to the statement that Schwartz was bowled over at Madison Square Garden a month ago because of overanxiousness. The Baker boy can be counted upon to give a good account of himself in an effort to regain some of his prestige.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE card at Hialeah Park today is rather lean, the feature redeeming the program to some extent by a good field for the mile and 70 yards test, for a purse of $1,300. It is possible that the end of the Fair Grounds meeting today will release some stables that will fill in at Miami in preference to the Jefferson Park season, which opens tomorrow.

The feature today is the Eimendorf Handicap, and eight horses are listed to start. JEAN LAFITTE should repeat, under the light impost of 99 pounds. This colt made quick time in his Grassland Handicap victory last week, beating Whisp and Lahor four lengths in 1:43, the same distance, which is near the track record, and is taking off weight. MURKY CLOUD is lightly weighted and has much speed. REPLEVIN may be next best, and is coupled with MORSEL. SUE MISSION, top weight, 120 pounds, seems anchored.

FIRST RACE — NORSE is selected for the first bout. Pressing Clean Play last out, after setting all the pace, GUFFLE has run two good races in Florida, and should be contender. SUNNY PAL is sure to figure in the race having been close up to Poincinana and Perkins. If he should win this, he would pay well, but it looks like a hard battle.

SECOND RACE—This appears to be between WHY MASK and BAD AXE. WHY MASK was heavily backed in his first start, but the race was won by Lon Red. This money may follow him back, for there is usually a reason for backing a 2-year-old on his first out. He was second to Dove in a recent race, which would make him dangerous here. SILENT VOTE may figure prominently.

THIRD RACE—STELLANOVA has a good chance, being the class of the field and having shown good enough form last out. FOURBOUIRE, which was third to Gay Bird last out, and well supported, is marked for the place money. Distance may be too great. FOURTH WARD is another having a chance and should be in the money.

FOURTH RACE—Mrs. John Hay Whitney's LIGHTNING BOLT, which has won three races at this track, should make it four by again taking brackets. He will have FINALIST as chief contender. COCK ROBIN, also a Florida winner, should be in the money, probably third. IMPISH is outclassed.

SIXTH RACE—This should go to BROWN GOLD, a consistent winner at this track, but it will be a hard contest. She got her last victory by a head over Watch Girl in 1:44 3-5, a mile and 70 yards. This was her best race, she having beaten Madelon in her previous start. If she repeats either of these efforts her chances seem fine. GREENWALD was a winner last out and will be the contender here. He beat Cynic and Lady Ebony. TALENTED PRINCE is fit and, on recent races, should get the short end of the purse if he can beat LADY EBONY. The last named appears to have gone back, or is waiting for the mud.

SEVENTH RACE—WOOD GAIN appears best. He was third to Nursery Rhymes in his last race. This is a weaker field than that one. CANDY PIG should show something in this race and is believed to be the contender. STRONG TACKLE has a chance to make it a close finish.

VALUES OF STOCKS GO FIRMLY HIGHER

Copper and Oil Shares Are Laggards in General Upward Trend.

AUBURN AUTO ABOVE 200

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Stocks marched steadily forward today, but the other financial markets refused to fall in line.

Net gains of 1 to 3 points in pivotal shares, of 4 to 8 numerous wider movers, and an extreme rise of 20½ in the current skyrocket, Auburn Auto measured the extent to which bullish activity was carried in the busy trading. Last hour profit taking brought reactions from the high prices of midafternoon.

The bond market shivered a little over the prospect of bonus legislation. United States Government, Treasuries and Liberties were soft and there was an undercurrent of easiness throughout prime domestic corporation issues. Wheat and corn both sagged and bar silver stepped to a new low. Cotton was barely steady.

Copper and oil stocks remained behind the procession, but they were virtually the only laggards. Chemicals, utilities, rails, steels and that broad classification, the specialties, responded to bullish leadership from the opening gong and remained in strong hands throughout the 3,200,000-share session. Whenever one group paused for breath another was pushed into the gap, the rails showing to particular advantage in such yeoman service.

Water Works Rise.

Although American Telephone, U. S. Steel, General Electric and a few other favorites were unable to improve on last week's highs, new peaks for the year appeared in Westinghouse, American Water Works, New York Central and North American. The extreme gain in Westinghouse, 4 points, was cut to 1½. American & Foreign Power and American Water Works closed 3¼ up, and there were net advances of 1 to 2 in U. S. Steel, American Can, Bethlehem Steel, General Electric, National Biscuit, Electric Power & Light, International Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Loew's, Warner Bros., Radio, Chrysler, Atchison and Southern Railway. New York Central, after climbing to 128½, fell back to 128¼, where it was 3¼ higher.

Auburn's top quotation, 200½, represented a maximum gain of 20½, and it closed at 199. Considerable short selling was reported in the stock on the theory that the pool might decide to let it go, but the price rose almost steadily. J. I. Case rose more than 8, International Business Machines, and Vulcan Detinning and Caterpillar Tractor, 5; Republic Steel preferred, Macy, Vanadium and Safeway Stores, 3 to 4. Allied Chemical lost nearly half of a 6-point advance.

Business summaries appearing over the week-end agreed there had been some improvement, and some even went so far as to say that the bottom of the decline had been touched. Investment advisory services commented on the unmistakable change in the market's spirits, but pointed out that the first stages of a recovery were invariably marked by irregularity. The Labor Department January employment figures showed a drop of 4.2 per cent, which was said to be seasonal.

Credit to Germany.

The $26,000,000 credit to Germany was regarded as important, chiefly because France is having a share in it. Banking circles here have been pointing out for some time that it would be advisable for France, with her huge gold reserve, to enter the capital market.

The supply of short term funds here contracted sumciently, under midmonth influences, to firm the outside call loan rate and for the first time in several weeks funds were offered unofficially at 1½ per cent, which is the stock exchange figure. Seasonal demands for money are unusually heavy in the interior around this time of year, and it was apparent that preparations for March 1 settlements were already made.

European exchanges rallied. The demand rates for sterling eables and the French franc both rose 8-32, and the Spanish peseta also continued to improve.

New wheat futures lost ½ to 1¼, under selling prompted by rains in Oklahoma and Texas and a large increase in stocks afloat. Corn broke 1¼ to 1⅝, reflecting liberal receipts and an increased visible supply. Cotton ranged 2 points lower to 2 higher at the close.

UTILITIES FEATURE ACTIVITY IN BONDS

Governments Slide Down as Buyers Watch Vote on Veterans' Bonus.

PRIVILEGE ISSUES JUMP

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—With the resumption of the bull movement in shares today, bonds that are influenced by stocks were again active and the best gains of an otherwise indifferent market were registered by them.

Some of the premier investment issues, notably utilities, made progress, but the reaction in United States Governments appeared to dominate the trend and the group closed irregularly lower. As the soldiers bonus bill reached the voting stage the market for United States Governments remained very thin and obligations were easily depressed by as much as ¾ of a point. They recovered somewhat before the close and Treasuries were from ¼ to ⅛ lower, with the decline of 23-32 in Treasury 3⅜ of 1943-47 an exception.

Among the stock privilege issues buoyed by the strong tone of shares were Atchison 4½s, Container Corporation, 5s, General Theaters 6s, International Telephone 4½s, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron 6s, Warner Bros. 6s and Shubert Theaters 6s. The Theater issues were up more than 2 points.

Armour & Co. 5½s, Consolidated Coal 5s, Indiana Limestone 6s, National Steel 5s, Republic Iron & Steel 5½s and Willys-Overland 6½s, advanced in the industrial group. A feature of utilities was the strong inquiry for American Telephone 5½s and debenture 5s, which were turned over in large volume at fractional advances. Cleveland & Pittsburgh 4½s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, International Great Northern issues, Lehigh 4½s, moved up with stocks, while more highly rated carrier loans drifted.

Foreigns maintained an upward trend.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—The curb market resumed its advance today, with utilities, motors, radio and specialty issues in the van, while oils mostly lagged.

Trading was in substantial volume, the day's transfers aggregating 567,000 shares, or 87,000 more than in the last full session on Friday. Activity, however, was largely concentrated in professional trading favorites.

Some profit taking appeared in the last hour, and extreme advances were reduced. Electric Bond & Share mounted more than 2 points in brisk trading, but closed up only 1⅛ net. United Light "A," American & Foreign Power warrants and American Gas & Electric recorded similar gains.

Speculation for the rise cropped out in some of the radio issues, presumably reflecting the latest judicial decision adverse to Radio Corporation of America and its patent pooling plan. DeForest advanced 1⅝ to a price of 8¼ and closed up ⅞. Pilot Radio sold up 2 points, close to 10, and closed 1¼ higher. Automatic Voting Machine was another low-priced specialty to come to life on the upside. It sold up more than 3 to a price of 8½, but closed at 7½.

Ford of Canada A was a strong spot in the few motor shares traded on the market, advancing more than 3 points. Cord Corporation moved up 1¼ in sympathy with further buying of Auburn on the big board. Other industrials to make fair headway included Deere, up 3; Aluminum Co., up 2¾, and Crocker-Wheeler and Mead Johnson up about a point.

Cities Service was a strong feature of the generally laggard oils. It rose a point, getting above 20. Humble, however, lost 3, and Gulf and Standard of Kentucky about 1 each. Vacuum was up a fraction.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Grains suffered material losses today under liquidation largely to pilings up of United States stocks of wheat and to widespread moisture alleviating drouth. Forecasts pointed to more rainfall tonight over domestic winter wheat territory, including Nebraska, despite reports almost 33,000,000 bushels in official estimates on Argentine spring wheat harvest failed to set as a counterbalance.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1¼ cents lower, corn 1 to 1¾ off, oats ⅛ to ⅜ down, and provisions varying from 3 cents decline to an advance of 10 cents.

Efforts to rally wheat proved almost futile in the face of 2,018,000 bushels increase in United States supplies, bringing a total of 194,033,000 bushels, contrasting with 158,852,000 at this time last year. Supplies in store at Chicago, which was west of more than 10,500,000 bushels increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, were a factor in the break with most of the enlargement during the last week. Added uncertainty relative to demand of late ahead of March 4 Farm Board sales counted also as a bearish influence, together with disclosure that exportation of ex-seaboard premiums of ex-port wheat bonus were contingent upon future financial happenings.

Acute weakness developed intensified the downward trend of wheat and other cereals. Visible supplies of both corn and wheat showed increases with the corn market tumbling to almost the season's bottom price record. About the only support for corn came from profit taking by speculators who of late have been sellers. Chicago arrivals of corn were of formidable size, 345 cars, and primary receipts were also in excess of last week's aggregate. Oats went lower with corn and wheat, despite 22,000,000 bushels reduction in estimated amount of the Argentine crop. Accompanying corn price setbacks were reports that farm use of corn was much swollen by the mild winter and by substitution of other feeds.

Provisions were steadied by upturns in hog prices.

FEAR OF DEATH FELT BY TRAPEZE ARTIST

Lillian Leitzel, Fatally Hurt in Fall, Had Premonition of Her Accident.

TRIED TO CANCEL DATE

Copenhagen, Germany, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Lillian Leitzel, dainty circus performer, who was hurled to her death when an iron ring snapped during her act here Friday night, had a premonition of tragedy.

It became known today that Miss Leitzel, who died in a delirium yesterday in consequence of injuries to her spine and head, had a foreboding and sought to cancel her contract here.

The management refused to release her and she continued her aerial acrobatics until the broken ring dropped her 45 feet to the floor before a horrified audience.

Wanted to Join Husband.

"It is not the place or the money," she said when trying to cancel the engagement. "They are both all right, but I want to be in Berlin with my husband."

Her husband, Alfredo Cordona, a triple somersault trapeze artist, was appearing in the German capital with his own troupe. He flew here after the accident, but when improvement was reported in his wife's condition he left the hospital and was not with her when she died.

Miss Leitzel, a native of Bohemia, was a favorite with circus fans throughout the world. Her act was a "giant half flance," in which she whirled her body in a circle at rapid speed, while holding the rope with one hand.

It is probable she will be buried in Copenhagen, a city which she loved.

Memorial Services Planned.

Sarasota, Fla., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Winter quarters of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus here was grief-stricken today because Lillian Leitzel, the beloved aerialist, is dead.

Word from Copenhagen that she had died of injuries suffered in falling brought expressions of sorrow from everyone on the lot. John Ringling, his performers and even the laborers grieved alike, for she was known and loved by all.

The circus made arrangements today for memorial services.

Gentle Rainfall Cheers Arid Area

Distinct Aid to Agriculture Seen in Precipitation in Mississippi Valley.

Kansas City, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A gentle rain swept over sections of the Central and Southwest today, routing a tenacious drought in many localities.

The precipitation in parts of Missouri, eastern Kansas, Arkansas, eastern and central Oklahoma, the lower Mississippi Valley and eastern Texas was of sufficient volume, A. M. Hamrick, weather forecaster, said, to be of distinct benefit to agriculture.

The forecaster saw promise of a spread of the rainfall to the dry regions of Iowa and Nebraska. The rain, the third of the month for south portion of the area affected, did not reach into the dry Panhandle of Texas or western Kansas. A norther on the Texas Gulf Coast may have resulted in the loss of one life. A man was missing.

Clarence Saunders, Inc., Is Adjudged Bankrupt

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Clarence Saunders, Inc., grocery chain system, was adjudged in bankruptcy in Federal Court here today.

Steps were taken for appointment of a trustee to take charge of the assets with a view toward reorganization under a plan approved by Judge Harry B. Anderson, who directed that the store system continue operations under jurisdiction of Leslie M. Stratton, of Memphis, and J. R. Peters, of New York, receivers appointed some time ago when a petition for involuntary bankruptcy was filed by several creditors.

Competition Held Basis Of Railroad Bus Rates

Omaha, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—Testifying at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on proposed bus and truck line regulation today, George W. Hand, of Chicago, asisstant to the president of the Northwestern Railroad, asserted that "meeting competition" is the means of determining rates on the road's bus lines.

The hearing, conducted by Examiner Leo J. Flynn, of Washington, opened here Saturday and was expected to conclude tomorrow.

By Mr. F. C. NIAL

From 10 a. m. to 7 p. m.

It costs you absolutely nothing to receive a free ten-day test supply of the herbal muscle-tonic "Plapao," and to examine and have demonstrated to you privately—a scientific self-treatment, which so many others attest under oath rid them of their rupture and saved them from the knife.

FREE—PLAPAO—FREE

Stuart's Plapao-Pads are patentably different from the truss, being mechanico-chemico applicators made self-adhesive purposely to keep the muscle tonic called "Plapao" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. Fabric soft as velvet—easy to apply—inexpensive. During 24 years thousands have successfully treated themselves at home—without hindrance from work. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome; Grand Prix, Paris, and Honorable Mention, San Francisco. Process of recovery is natural, so no subsequent use for any kind of support.

BE SURE TO CALL!

Do not fail to call on Mr. Nial, as you may not have another opportunity for some time.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IN the February issue of the Motion Picture Monthly, published by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., of which Will H. Hays is president, Reginald Wright Kaufman disposes tersely of what has long been considered a moot question in an article that bears the heading of "The National Child versus The International Censor."

Mr. Kaufman, a well-known writer and correspondent, now stationed in Geneva, Switzerland, opens his consideration of a perplexing question with this succinct observation:

"How can governments best compose an international motion-picture censorship for the benefit of children?'

"During five years, through its Child Welfare Commission, the League of Nations has endeavored to solve that riddle. Today, after assiduous questioning of some 40 ministries of education—after collecting, codifying, interpreting nearly all available data—after four annual conferences attended by official representatives and experts from over two score countries—it looks as if the decision would simply be:

"Governments can't."

This, as it happens, is a decision that Washington's leading exhibitors were, perhaps, first of any to realize. It is why, without waiting for official District or Federal intervention, years ago the Public Service and Educational Department of the then Crandall Theaters was organized and successfully operated for so many seasons under the able direction of Mrs. Harriet Hawley Locher, who is now engaged in a similar activity at the Fox.

The child problem is one entirely apart from the ordinary concerns of commercial exhibition of pictures for the edification of adult audiences, and must be treated as such.

Washington knew more than a decade ago what the League of Nations has just discovered—which will probably ruin the League if it ever gets out!

It comes to me direct from Harry E. Lohmeyer, manager, that last week's combination of Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown, on the screen, and Kate Smith, on the stage, smashed every attendance record made since the re-adoption of the picture-vaudeville policy at the Earle Theater.

Up to last week the record was held by the combination of Irene Delroy, James Hall, Lew Cody and Natalie Moorhead in "Divorce Among Friends," on the screen, and Winnie Lightner, in person, on the stage.

Now then, all you puzzle experts have to figure out is who wielded the balance of power last week—Winnie Lightner in shadow form or Kate Smith in the flesh.

Speaking of the Earle, you have probably noticed that new electric display sign that is being hoisted onto the facade of the Thirteenth street playhouse immediately over the entrance portals. It supplants a two-way sign that was legible from both the north and the south, but when flashed on for the first time—probably Saturday of this week—will be found largely to ignore the Avenue approach and concentrate its brilliance on the F street crowds.

What you may not have noticed is that a new stage floor has been installed at the Earle. Whether you happen to observe it or not, a few of the dancers who have slipped, slithered and slid around on its glassy surface know it's there. Yeah, much better than splinters!

And if you do not quite remember what it was that Lillian Leitzel, whose untimely death occurred in Copenhagen Sunday, used to do with the Barnum & Baily-Ringling circus and at Keith's in the old vaudeville days, Kafka, of the team of Kafka, Stanley and Mae, is doing the same sort of up-and-over business at the Earle, although it must be said without the color, speed or endurance of the peerless Leitzel.

It is part of the irony of fate that it was the steel ring and not the diminutive queen of the big tops that gave way in the Valencia Theater in the Danish capital.

Any one having business with Orangelo Ratto, house manager at Loew's Palace, will, perforce, have to defer it until the morrow. Today is Mr. Ratto's birthday and he is celebrating the event far from the manifold demands of his official duties. After close of business last night, his associates presented him with a purse of gold and enough slaps on the back to maim him for life!

Congratulations, old-timer, you don't look it!

Although the many elements contributing to its unusual quality of realism have been pretty thoroughly gone into, it may not be too late to comment upon one aspect of "The Seas Beneath," now in the midst of a nine-day run at the Fox, that differentiates it from the customary tank, or calm-lagoon, type of ocean melodrama.

The scenes in this John Ford production impress me as being precisely what they pretend to be. I mean to say that when a rough sea was needed for the thrilling rescue of the lifeboat in which the heroine—if an enemy spy can be a heroine—was adrift, Mr. Ford took his company out on a sea that was rough, no fooling. Not too rough, mind you, like some of these teapot tempests that couldn't be true in the worst typhoon that ever blew, nor yet so calm as, say, Chevy Chase Lake or Soldiers' Home pond.

By making his film reflect fact, Mr. Ford has produced a picture in which the U. S. Navy Department has every right to take pride—as I understand it does in large gobs!

Rumors over the week-end were as thick as bats in that castle of Count Dracula's in Transylvania. One was to the effect that they are all but ready to throw open the doors of a handsome new picture house on the former Garfinckel's site at the southeast corner of Thirteenth and F streets; the other, that the engagement of Maxine Doyle as mistress of ceremonies at the Earle was drawing to a close.

The first is no more susceptible of corroboration than it has ever been and the second totally false.

Miss Doyle, by her ingenuous charm of manner and utter naturalness, has won an enthusiastic following that would do credit to any of our masculine stentors who have fairly torn themselves apart to achieve comparable popularity. Instead of being on the way out, she is on the way up as a house asset of growing importance and value.

Whoever started a contrary rumor is a malicious you-know-what, tha-a-hk you!

Whatever else they may or may not have, the incoming pictures at the Loew houses certainly boast casts.

Palace, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath:" Buster Keaton, Charlotte Greenwood, Reginald Denny, Cliff Edwards, Dorothy Christy, Joan Peters, Sally Eilers, Natalie Moorhead, Edward Brophy, Walter Merrill and Sidney Bracy.

Columbia, "Inspiration:" Greta Garbo, Robert Montgomery, Lewis S. Stone, Marjorie Rambeau, Judith Voselli, Beryl Mercer, John Miljan, Zelda Sears, Gwen Lee, Paul McAllister, Arthur Hoyt, Richard Tucker.

Education to Aid Peace, Wilbur Says

Children Trained in World Friendship Regarded as Best War Bar.

Lasting peace among nations will only be assured when children everywhere are educated in the principles of "world friendship based on rational patriotism," Secretary of the Interior Wilbur said yesterday in a letter to Col. James A. Moss, president general of the United States Flag Association.

Secretary Wilbur indorsed the association's movement for mobilization of the women and children of America in the cause of world peace. The movement is sponsored by the Women's National Council of the association, of which Mrs. Herbert Hoover is honorary chairman.

"The London Naval Conference, the Kellogg peace treaties, the Locarno agreement and similar efforts," Mr. Wilbur adds, "are great accomplishments which will go down in history as early steps toward permanent world understanding."

G. W. Classes Adjourn To Honor Late Dean

George Washington University classes were discontinued yesterday as a tribute to Dr. Howard Lincoln Hodgkins, dean of the university, who died Friday night.

The order for the adjournment was given by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president, so that students might pay their respects to the man who had been affiliated with the school for more than 50 years.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 16.

Salaries paid employes constitute one of the largest items of business expenses. To be allowed as a deduction such claims must conform closely to the wording of the statute, which provides for the deduction of "a reasonable allowance for personal services actually rendered." The test of deductibility is whether the amounts paid are reasonable and whether they are, in fact, purely for personal services. Money paid an officer of a corporation for which no services, or services inadequate to the compensation, are rendered is not deductible as "salary." Reasonable compensation is held to be an amount that ordinarily is paid by like enterprises in like circumstances for like services.

Bonuses to employes may be deducted by employers when such payments are made in good faith as additional compensation for services actually rendered, provided that, when added to the stipulated salaries, the total does not exceed "a reasonable compensation for services rendered." When the amount of a salary of an officer or employee is paid for a limited time to a widow or heirs in recognition of services rendered by the deceased, such payment may be deducted.

Amounts paid to retired employes, their families or other dependents upon them, as pensions, or on account of injuries received by employes, are deductible by the employer. Such deductions are limited to the amount not compensated for by insurance in favor of the employer, or otherwise.

Salaries paid by employers to employes who are absent in military, naval, or other service of the Government, but who intend to return at the conclusion of such services, are allowable deductions by the employer.

New Device Finds Gems, Gold and Oil

But Superdip Compasses Require Good Geologists as Operators.

New York, Feb. 16 (A.P.).—A new kind of compass points to diamonds, gold, oil. The American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers was told about it today.

It is a prospector's tool, replacing pack mule, pick and pan. But the prospector must know geology, and the results are no more certain than the old pan, although on a far bigger scale.

The new prospecting was explained by Noel H. Stearn, a consulting geologist of St. Louis. A needle called the Hotchkiss superdip is balanced between gravitation and the same magnetic lines which guide the mariner's compass. It is set to swerve wherever the earth's normal magnetic lines are disturbed.

New York Architect Is Divorced in Reno

Reno, Nev., Feb 16 (A.P.).—Mrs. Clara Deifield Sturges Johnson obtained a divorce here today from William Templeton Johnson, New York architect. She said he became cold and indifferent, self-willed, discourteous to her friends, and showed increasing selfishness.

Mr. Johnson began the suit, accusing his wife of desertion, and she won the decree on her charge of mental cruelty.

CHEAP ELECTRIC RATES for Homes of AVERAGE MEANS . . . . .

The exceedingly low household rates for electricity in Washington and nearby Maryland have been established for the home of average means. These rates are of great benefit to the modest home because they give the maximum volume of electricity for the smallest amount of money, thereby enabling every small household to gain manifold savings and comforts resulting from the enlarged use of electricity.

While the greatly reduced rates for electricity in Washington and nearby Maryland primarily benefit the home of average means, they likewise effect substantial economies for the more pretentious household using more electricity. The basic rates for "Matchless Service" are identical for all household consumers and their monthly bills are in direct proportion to the amount of current used . . . without a service, demand or other extra charge.

LET us help you by advice, service and understanding to utilize the full benefits of a greater use of this singular advantage in cheap electric current cost. Under the profit-sharing method of determining rates in Metropolitan Washington the interests of consumers and the Company are mutual. The accompanying table of electric rates as charged in other cities shows the advantages in dollars and cents value of this plan which has received nation-wide recognition and commendation.
